Edmonton Tax Rate is Likely To Be 30 Mills, With Another Mill as Patriotic Fund Levy

Rate Will Include Levy on Land and Improvements, But Will Not Cover Business Tax and Income Tax—Difference Will Be Made in Discount Allowed and Penalties Imposed

Final estimates for 1918 were considered and passed by the city council on Friday, and unless something very radical happens to change the figures presented to council between now and the next meeting, when the tax rate is to be actually struck, the rate for this year will be 30 mills. In addition there is the one mill imposed by the government to cover the patriotic levy, which will bring the rate to 31 mills. The rate last year was 26½ mills.

This will include the tax on land improvements, but will not cover the business tax and the income tax, which will be levied separately and in addition.

It should be clearly understood by the citizens that this year, owing to the charter amendments, there will be a difference in the discount allowed and penalties imposed. For payments in October a discount of 2 per cent. will be allowed, in November a discount of 1 per cent. In December no discount will be allowed, and the penalties will commence with 2½ per cent. being imposed at the beginning of January. This means that there will be a difference of 4½ per cent. on the taxes paid in October against those paid at the beginning of the next year. Afterwards a penalty of 2½ per cent. is imposed quarterly until the end of the year, when the whole amount is compounded and becomes a part of the taxes.

Increased in Other Cities

Before dealing with the estimates it may be pointed out that the mill rate in other cities has shown a substantial increase this year. In Winnipeg there has been an increase of 4 mills, whereas in Edmonton the increase is 3½ mills, the Lethbridge rate is 34.07 for public school supporters and 42.01 for separate school school supporters, at Saskatoon the rate is 33.05 for public school supporters and 36.09 for separate school supporters, in Toronto the rate is 30½ mills, stated to be an unprecedented figure for that city. It is understood the rate is 30 mills for Calgary this year.

The total estimate for Edmonton for the year is $3,117,934.48, as against $2,640,370.16, an increase for 1918 of $477,564.32. This includes both controllable and uncontrollable expenditure.

To meet this the estimated revenue from the business tax, deducting the allowances that have to be made where the tax is set-off by licnses paid, is $150,000. The estimated revenue from the income tax, with $15,000 deducted as set-off against land taxes paid, is $135,000, making a total estimated revenue from the two taxes of $285,000.

Land Assessment Reduced

The mill rate is struck on a total assessment of improvements of $16,000,000 and a total land assessment of $77,500,000, a total assessment of the two of $93,500,000. This year there is a 20 per cent. reduction on the land assessment, and the total of the land and improvements assessment this year is $93,500,000, against the assessment of $100,000,000 on the land alone last year.

In separating the various estimated expenditures for the year, that which is controllable, and including the departmental estimates and the amounts cited for miscellaneous and grants, totals $727,635.46, against $654,524.58 last year, an increase of $73,110.88. For the purely departmental expenditures alone the estimate is $581,262.01, against $541,238.29 last year, an increase for 1918 of $40,023.72.

Increased Expenses the Cause

This increase in the departmental estimates is accounted for by the expenses in several departments having risen. The city assessor's department is down for $38,340.87, against $19,693.31 actual expenditure last year. In all figures quoted of last year it must be understood that they are actual expenditures. The increase for the city assessor is due to the work of the tax sale, the additional work of making the business and improvements assessments, income tax work, which has all increased the duties of the department enormously. Now in order to get out the tax notices in time as soon as the mill rate is settled, night and day staffs will have to be put on in the assessor's office. The city assessor was given a small increase of $300 on his salary.

The fire department shows an increase of some $28,000 as its estimate is $133,433, against $105,734.58 last year. The increase is due to an advance of some $14,000 in salaries, about $6,000 for clothing, and $6,000 for maintenance of motor equipment. It has to be taken into account that there was an extra payroll during the strike and that allowances were also made to employees, and that extra men have been taken on to allow of the one day off in four being given the staff.

Police Estimate Up

The police estimate is $96,960.60, as against $84,643.8 last year, an increase of $12,000, this being accounted for by additional salaries.

The miscellaneous expenditure has been boosted by $15,000 tax refunds to the G.T.P. Railway Company and for the Norwood boulevard assessments, and there are also a number of other tax adjustments, such as $4,400 for the C.N.R. tax adjustment, $6,166 remitted on the Grierson appeal, and special tax adjustments $9,000. For claims, damages, etc., $10,000 has been allowed. The charter amendments this year cost $600 and the fire investigation $1,055.45.

A saving has ben made by there being no allotment for the Exhibition board, as they have to use their surplus this year for any requirements. The expenditure of the engineer's department has been reduced by $7,000, and the sewer maintenance by $2,700. There is a slight decrease in the city comptroller's department, but a small increase in the license and collection department. The city clerk was given an increase of $330 on his salary. The estimate of the streets and scavenging is $103,860.74, against $115,659.26 last year, a decrease of some $12,000. A saving of $5,000 has been effected in street lighting.

A new department which calls for $4,758.37 is that of the income tax collector.

More for Edmonton Hospital

Under the heading of grants and donations, the sum of $43,600 is set down for the Edmonton Hospital Board, which is an increase of $12,000 on last year's levy. For the General hospital $5,000 is allowed, $4,500 for the Misericordia hospital and $4,000 for the board of public welfare.

Coming to uncontrollable expenditures interest and exchange calls for $497,642.23, against $445,004.86 last year, which is a considerable increase. It was stated that a great deal of this was occasioned by bank overdrafts, but next year it would show an improvement by earlier collection of taxes.

There are some special items allowed for, one of these being $250,000 to meet treasury bills due on September 1 of this year. For 1914-16 taxes outstanding under agreements the sum of $67,837.16 has been provided, and for tax exemptions under the provisions of Alberta statutes protecting the soldier's homes and their dependents the sum of $100,000.

Forgeneral debenture interest and redemption the amount of $884,358.92 has been set aside, against $880,606.28 last year.

On the allowance for discount on current taxes paid, the city is making a big saving this year, as the amount set aside is only $40,000, against $168,064 last year. This is all the amount considered necessary by reason of the new scheme of discounts instituted by the charter amendments of this year.

There is no levy for the library board this year, as they can get along on the money due from the city last year, which has not all been paid.

Big Increase for Schools

The schools, however, call for a big increase, the Edmonton public school board estimating its requirements at $715,000, an increase of $55,000 on last year, when the amount spent was $660,000. The Separate schools ask for $90,000, an increase of $10,000 on last year, when the expenditure was $80,000.

Briefly speaking, the increase in the total amount required by the city for the year can be set down to the amounts necessary to meet the soldier's exemptions, for the treasury bills due next month, the amount for taxes outstanding under agreements, the increase in interest and exchange, and the increases in the city assessor's, the fire and the police departments.

As for the subject of revenue, apart from that brought in by taxation, this shows a decrease on the estimate, which is $255,068.87, against $279,829.66 last year. It was stated that the decrease in revenue from interest was due to the fact that as soon as property went into the tax sale, the revenue from penalties ceased, as it was covered by the penalty provided in the case of redemption, and that could not be estimated by the city. Before the property went into the city there was revenue from the penalties on arrears.

The department showing the largest increase in revenue for the year was the license, this being $36,000, against $11,587 last year. The markets also show an increase, but there is a drop in the rents from city property.

It was suggested by Ald. Bush that the city should endeavor to secure from the government some compensation for the use of the south side hospital. The city had to pay all the charges on the hospital and the government got the use of it for nothing.

The mayor said he would look into the matter.

The estimates, as submitted by the city comptroller, and recommended by the finance committee, were passed by council on the motion of Ald. Bush, seconded by Ald. Milton Martin.

In arriving at the estimated mill rate 11¾ are quoted for municipal and general purposes, 9¾ for debenture interest and redemption and 8½ for school rate.

LLOYD GEORGE PAYS TRIBUTE TO AMERICA

Nation Proves True to Traditions as the Protector of Freedom

GOMPERS EULOGIZED

U.S. Labor Leader Declares America Is with Allies to Victorious End

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Premier David Lloyd George, at a luncheon given by the government in honor of Samuel Gompers, the president of the American Federation of Labor, today proposed a toast to the health of the labor leader who is visiting England.

"I do this for two reasons," said Mr. Lloyd George. "One of these is the country from which our guest comes—a country cradled and nurtured in fredom. It has now proved itself true to the great traditions of being the champion and the protector of freedom. In this undertaking it has placed the whole of its reserves at the disposal of the Allies in the great struggle for liberty."

"Therefore," he continued, "we salute the flag of that glorious land of America."

"In the second place," he added, "we welcome Mr. Gompers and his friends for their own sakes. Gompers is a name well known in every country as in his own. Mr. Gompers is a man who, like myself, has forgiven those who in the past have upbraided him in his policies. We are fully prepared to co-operate to secure the ideals which we have always held.

"Fortunately there are few in the Allied countries who do not believe this to be a righteous war. On behalf of the British Empire and the Allies I wish to say that no man has done more than Mr. Gompers to convince the civilized world that it is vital to the interests of all that the war should be prosecuted to a triumphant conclusion."

Greater Than Maintaining Peace

George H. Roberts, Minister of Labor, in seconding the toast, said:

"The great American people is joined to the Allies to demonstrate to are world the maintenance of right is even of greater importance than the maintenance of peace."

Mr. Gompers, in replying to the premier's address, said:

"The war has ceased to be a war. It is a crusade for right, justice and liberty. America is with the Allies to the end—the victorious end. I am convinced we dare not lose. We cannot lose. We will win."

BOY ACCIDENTALLY KILLED AT MINBURN

Gun Carried by Brother Goes off While Lads Were Running Race

(Viking Times.)

Freddie Swift, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Swift of the Minburn district, was almost instantly killed by the accidental discharge of a .22 rifle in the hands of his 7-year-old brother last Thursday afternoon. The older boy was going out to shoot a badger a short distance from the house and was accompanied by young Freddie. When the youngsters came to where the badger was seen it was gone. The little fellow then suggested a foot race home. He was presumably running ahead of his brother when it in some way discharged, the bullet hitting the younger brother in the back of the head. He lived only two hours after the accident and practically never regained consciousness.

Germans Forced Into Their Own Trap by British--Are Decimated by Artillery--Thrilling Incident

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN FRANCE, Aug. 30.—The Germans have been trying ever since the fall of Bapaume to hold the line running along the road between that town and Peronne. British patrols, however, actually have reached Le Transloy, directly on the road, and it is reported that Le Tarsloy has fallen and that a fierce battle within a battle is raging along almost the whole length of the road. Hard fighting is going on around Beaucourt. The Germans hold the major portion of this village for the moment but they seem destined to be thrown out from it.

Bancourt, east of Bapaume, fell after being stormed.

Astride the road to Cambrai from Peronne the British crashed into the Germans and smothered their resistance, sometimes again at the point of the bayonet. Fremicourt seems to have been taken and the British have driven on eastward. North of here, Vaulx-Vracourt, which contained a large enemy garrison that offered the strongest resistance with machine guns, apparently has fallen in its entirety to the British. Ecourt St. Mein and Longatte in its suburbs again are reported to have been captured by the British. Here the Germans delivered a powerful counter-attack and the British withdrew in the face of it. The artillery was turned into the trap the Germans had made for themselves and after it had finished, the British moved back again and mopped up what remained of the Germans. Bullecourt is well in British hands, as apparently is Hendecourt. Reincourt and Cagnicourt seem to be in the hands of Field Marshal Haig's men. Heavy fighting is reported in this locality, as here the British have reached a point only a few hundred yards distant from the Dricourt-Queant switch line, which apparently is garrisoned with every man the German high command has been able to lay hands on. They are waiting for what they expect may come in their five lines of trenches, which are protected by belts of barbed wire.

LESSER SLAVE LAKE RE-OPENS FISHING SEPT. 1

License of Company Suspended for Improper Handling of Fish Caught

OTTAWA, Aug. 30.—Lesser Slave lake, Alberta, and Lac la Biche, which for the last two weeks have been closed to csommercial fisheries there operating by order of the Canada Food Board and the department of naval service, will be re-opened the first of September. For improper handling of fish caught from the Lesser Slave lake, Alberta, which resulted in waste, the Independent Fish company of Widewater, Alberta, had their license to operate suspended by the food board for two months, ending November 1 during which time the company may not buy, sell, deal in or ship fish. The Great Waterways Fish company, of Lac la Biche, for operating withut a license and for lack of proper facilities for storing and handling fish, have been refused license to operate by the food board. The action closing these lakes was taken pending an investigation of complaints of waste. Investigation by officers of the department of naval service and the Canadian Food Board has placed the blame for the waste complained of. Some two or three cars of fish had spoiled but not over 50,000 pounds out of 1,000,000 pounds caught during the season to date. In the case of one of the offending firms, the fish had spoiled in transit through careless packing. In the second case the firm had lacked storage facilities and the fish had spoiled awaiting shipment.

ITALIANS REPULSE SURPRISE ATTACKS

ROME, Aug. 30.—The official communication issued by the war office today says:

"A British detachment penetrated the enemy lines south of Asiago, inflicting considerable losses and took a few prisoners. Two hostile airplanes have been brought down."

DYMERA, NEAR KIEV, DECLARED IN STATE SIEGE

Unrest Among Ukraine Peasants Spreads—Mutineers Assist in Fighting Germans

LONDON, Aug. 30—A Russian wireless dispatch received here today from Moscow says:

"A resolute struggle is going on against the White Guards. The organizer of the recently discovered conspiracy at Moscow named Marpulis has been shot. Near the Church of Christ the Saviour, a band of White Guards was captured during the night. The author, Peschechnoff, formerly editor of a newspaper at Petrograd, has been set free at Moscow.

"In The Ukraine, the unrest among the peasants is spreading. The district and town of Dymera, 24 miles from Kiev, has been declared by the German army commander to be in a state of siege. All persons were forbidden to be in the streets after 7 p.m. and all movements to and from the town were prohibited.

"Nevertheless, the peasants succeeded in placing forces about the town and the commander asked for reinforcements from Kiev. After two hours an airplane appeared over the town and announced that two steamers with soldiers and guns had been dispatched against the peasant forces.

"Soldiers arrived with machine guns and occupied all routes to the town. A fine was imposed on the town.

"Mutineers numbering about 1,000 men with 10 machine guns and several other guns joined the peasants and fierce fighting took place between these forces and the Germans. There were many losses on both sides.

"The population of Kiev is starving."

DR. BELAND TELLS OF NARROW ESCAPE AT FALL ANTWERP

While in Chloroform Room of Hospital Place Was Wrecked by Shell

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—The Parish Hall of St. James cathedral was packed to capacity Friday afternoon, when Hon. H. S. Beland addressed the members of the Canadian Club. Dr. Beland spoke of some of his experiences during the siege and fall of Antwerp. Referring to an incident which nearly cost him his life, Dr. Beland told how a shell fell in the chloroform room of the hospital in which he was working. The room was cased in glass.

"The shell made a mess of the place and I got a piece of glass on the nose," said the doctor.

"I thought I was dead, but I must have been living. (Laughter). The shells were coming five a second and it kept up for thirty hours. When I succeeded in getting out of the hot spots I traveled north in comparative safety."

Dr. Beland defended the action of Winston Churchill in sending a naval brigade into Antwerp during the siege of that city.

Speaking of the deprivations he suffered during his four years in Germany, Dr. Beland said he was hungry for only three months. That was during the period he was not permitted to buy food.

"I would wake up in the middle of the night in those days and think of chewing my quilt," he said, amid laughter. The Canadian Red Cross, however, eventually came to his rescue with its supplies of food. For this, he declared, his gratitude was undying.

Dr. Beland announced that he would shortly give a series of lectures which he hoped would be to the benefit of the Canadian Red Cross financially.

THE RAILWAY TO McMURRAY

Travellers from the north report that the work of building bridges and repairing the grade of the Waterways railway between the present end of steel and McMurray is nearly completed, ready for tracklaying.

Ballast has been laid under the track to a point about ten miles from the end of steel. The sink hole at the crossing of the inlet of Lake Gregoire to the Christina river, which has caused a great deal of trouble, has been made safe. There are still some sections of unballasted track between the gravel pit and Lac la Biche, but work is still progressing.

The Germans have retreated from the town of Bailleul.

North of Soissons, French troops today captured Hill 159, and they now hold the high ground between Soissons and Leury, according to information received from the battlefront this evening.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 30.—Between the Ailette and the road from Coucy to Chauny, the struggle was severe. The French occupied Champs, the Daast Wood, Praast and Villette.

General Mangin now has gained a strong foothold on the north bank of the Ailette and the plateau north of Soissons occupying positions of great interest with a view to future operations.

"Our troops entered Riencourt-les-Bapaume and Bancourt, where they have been actively engaged with the enemy throughout the day. They captured Fremicourt and Vaulx-Vraucourt taking a number of prisoners in this locality.

"At Ecoust-St. Mein the enemy is still maintaining an obstinate defence, though closely pressed by our troops, who have taken a number of prisoners in this locality.

"At Bullecourt and Hendecourt hostile counter-attacks delivered with much determination by strong forces, compelled our troops to fall back to the western outskirts of these, and to a German trench system between them, where the enemy's atacks were stopped by our fire. North of these villages an attack launched this morning by Canadians astride the Arras-Cambrai road has been successful.

"Enemy defences between Hendecourt and Haucourt have been captured, together with the latter village and several hundred prisoners. South of Bapaume our troops have maintained vigorous pressure upon the enemy and have gained ground.

"We have made progress east and northeast of Clery, and in this sector have taken 800 prisoners. In the Lys sector, the enemy is continuing his withdrawal, closely followed by our troops. Bailleul is again in our possession."

"Pursuing our progress, our troops have crossed the canal at two points in front of Cantigny and Beaurains and taken Chevilly and Hill 80 and penetrated Genvry.

"More to the south stubborn fighting has been going on in the region north and east of Noyon. We hold Happlincourt and Mount St. Simon. During these actions we have taken several hundred prisoners.

"Between the Oise and the Aisne there has been no less lively fighting.

"On th north bank of the Ailette we have conquered the village of Champs.

Capture Battery Complete

BRITISH ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Aug. 30—(Reuter's)—In the capture of Combles, the British took a battery complete, in addition to some 260 prisoners and at Maurepas one 15-centimetre howitzer and four field guns fell into their hands, according to information received here.

Damage to Noyon Small

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 30.—The heavy German guns have been withdrawn a considerable distance since the day before yesterday. No sound of their firing is heard and shells arriving in the vicinity of Noyon sound as if they were nearly spent. The historic town, made famous by the familiar saying, "the Germans are still in Noyon," has suffered little from shellfire so far. The French purposely spared the town, preferring to take it at the point of the bayonet rather than destroy historic monuments.

The total of 150 prisoners taken this morning is indicative of the present tactics used by the Germans. They are leaving very few men within reach of their adversaries, but every man is equipped with a quick firer. These tactics also account for the great number of machine guns captured all over the fighting front in recent battles. The count has not yet been made but it is known that the number is formidable.

LONDON TIMES CORRESPONDENT GIVES CREDIT DUE CANADIANS FOR SPLENDID WORK AT SECOND BATTLE OF AMIENS

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN THE FIELD, Aug. 28.—Some little disappointment was felt in the Canadian corps in respect to the early reports of the second battle of Amiens, in which the corps took a leading part. As these specified British and French troops as being engaged, but failed to mention specifically the colonials, early reports of the battle filed in these dispatches a few hours after it opened, were held up nearly two days, and during that period the people of Canada must have been in ignorance that their army was carrying out triumphantly the most brilliant of its feats. One reason for this was the military necessity, it being desirable that the enemy should be kept as long as possible in ignorance of the fact that it was the Canadian corps who had pierced the centre before Amiens. As a consequence the London papers have all unwittingly appeared to belittle the Canadian share in the victory, but the corps has taken it philosophically, realizing that the advent of such troops cannot be advertised beforehand.

The map will show what they have done, however. The special correspondent of the London Times, writing from war correspondents' headquarters in France, makes, in a measured review of the recent battle, amends to the Canadian corps in the following:

"In the first scene of our offensive, which began on August 9, the actors were chiefly from overseas. Men from the British Isles took only a small part in the attack north of the Somme to protect the flank of the Australians. South of the river, below here on the main battlefront, the honor of the first advance was shared by the Australians and Canadians. In structure it was chiefly a Canadian battle. It was their advance on the Luce that was the core and crux of the operation, and on their progress depended the advance of the Australians on their left and that of the successive French armies on their right, each of which was thrown in only as the advance above it prospered. The Canadians, I think, are right in claiming that the fighting on these first two days was the biggest thing that Canada has done in the war, not excepting the capture of Vimy Ridge. Certainly nothing could have been better."

The above is the testimony of an impartial witness and the Canadian corps, adverse to blowing its own horn, is quietly satisfied.

CAFE CLOSED SEVEN DAYS BY BOARD'S ORDER

Suspension of License of Maple Leaf Eating House Following Conviction.

The Maple Leaf cafe has been closed for seven days by the Canada Food Board. This is the statement given to the Bulletin by Capt. G. D. Hunt, food controller, Friday morning.

Z. Zouboulis, proprietor of the Maple Leaf cafe, was found guilty of an offence against the War Measures Act a few days ago in the city police court and fined $100 and costs. The action of the Food Board in closing up the cafe arises out of this defiance of the law.

Zouboulis had stored on his premises fourteen sacks or more of flour, a greater quantity than was necessary to meet the needs of his care. Fifteen days' supplies is all that any cafe or private household may have on hand at any time.

The immediate result of the Food Board's action in closing down the cafe was to bring a host of cafe owners in double quick speed to the office of the food controller to make inquiries regarding the enforcement of the War Measures Act.

RETURNED SOLDIERS' SUCCESS.

Corp. Shore, E.C., and Corp. Freebody, have returned to the city after spending one month at Ottawa, where they went into special training for the C. M. P. C., of Edmonton. Both men passed with "flying colors," and highest honors. The friends of Corp. Shore are giving a banquet in the Phoenix cafe on Saturday evening to celebrate his success.

Grandmother Gave It To Mother, Mother To Me, I To My Baby

Read what Mrs. Wm. Gray, Jacquet River, N.B., has to say about Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. She writes: "There is no medicine I know of that can come up with Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It has been in our house for forty years. My grandmother gave it to my mother, she to me, and I to my baby. For summer complaint it has no equal. I never miss a chance of telling my neighbors about it. I would not think it safe to go to the country in the summer without a bottle of it. It has saved us many a doctor bill.

For the past 72 years Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been recognized by both the people and the medical profession as the greatest remedy known for all cases of diarrhoea, dysentery, cramps, colic, pains in the stomach, cholera infantum, cholera morbus, seasickness and all bowel complaints.

There are so many spurious "strawberry" preparations on the market today that it would be well for you to see that the name "Dr. Fowler's" is on every bottle you buy.

Our guarantee that it will do what we clai mfor it, stands behind every bottle. But the imitations—what is their record, where the guarantee?

MUST ADVERTISE SAYS COSTELLO

Calgary's Mayor Opposed To Any Brand Of Star Chamber Business.

Mayor Costello, of Calgary, is opposed to any brand of star chamber business at the city hall. He believes in calling for tenders and giving every man a chance. "The open door,' he said, "is the right way, and the only way."

This observation was made by his worship at a meeting of the commissioners when the leasing of the Nose Creek incinerator for a period of five years, was under discussion. It was proposed to lease the property to several Calgary capitalists to be converted into a rendering plant. The mayor and commissioners were assured that people residing in the district were not opposed to the establishing of the plant. The promoters were willing to pay a sliding scale of prices for the use of the property, but his worship was not satisfied, and urged that the property be advertised in the usual way in order that other business men might have a chance of bidding on the property.

The commissioners concurred in the suggestion and tenders will be called.

COMMUNITY LEAGUE FAIR HELD AT JASPER PLACE LABOR DAY

Preparations for the Community League fair at the Jasper place school on Labor Day are going forward smartly. Exhibits of vegetables and flowers will be smalled than they would have been had the July frost kept its icy fingers off the gardens in the district, but there are a good number of gardens that were not much hurt and some creditable entries will be on show.

The list of one hundred prizes attracts a good deal of attention, particularly among the young people also see in the price list golden opportunity for not only kudos but cash as well. A cash prize of $2 for the best bouquet of wild flowers has drawn to it the close attention of young people who feel that they could use such a sum to good advantage.

Altogether Labor Day, 1918, seems likely to be an occasion long to be remembered by the members of the Community League at Jasper place as a day of much pleasure and not a little profit.

Provincial Police Court

In the provincial police court Thursday evening Peter Gunn presiding, Ralph Inscho and his brother were found guilty of the charge of illegally having in their possession firearms and were sentenced to 45 days' imprisonment.

Mrs. McMennomy, of the Cooking Lake district, was found guilty of a breach of the Liquor Act, in that she had been supplying extract of lemon to a half-breed, which extract contained too much alcohol. She was fined $10 and costs.

Fred Goslin and his brother, Arthur Goslin, both of Cooking Lake, were charged with assault upon the former's wife, but were acquitted of the charge. They were both, however, found guilty of the charge of failing to report for military service and turned over to the military authorities.

Eli Patenandi was arrested by the provincial police at Lac la Biche, charged with a breach of the Military Service Act, and was remanded for trial.

COMMISSIONER TO PROTECT TREES

The attention of the city commissioners is drawn to the damage done to the growing trees on the city boulevards by mischievous young people, and C. G. Robson suggests a plan by which it might be prevented.

He says that in may cases the trees are now very beautiful and add much to the attractiveness of the streets and they should be looked after and saved from wanton destruction.

He proposes that a voluntary commissioner should be appointed in each street whose duties would be to look after the trees and to interview the parents of the childrn detected interfering with them, and also, if necessary, to assist in taking other action if damage has been wrought.

By such means Mr. Robson believes that the trees will be saved and there will be no expense to the city.

Baby's Great Danger During Hot Weather

More little ones die during the summer months than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum and stomach disorders, come without warning and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the home where there are young children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach trouble and bowel troubles or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will cure the baby. Mrs. Chas. Anderson, Minda, Alta., says: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine for little ones who are suffering from stomach troubles. They cured my baby and have made her a fine healthy girl." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Streets and Scavenging Departments

The streets and scavenging department has always been a part of the city administration which has called for the expenditure of large sums of money, and in common with other western cities, by reason of their wide boundaries, has generally proved somewhat unwieldy in the working.

What is it that is included in the duties which are allocated to this department. First there is the maintenance of streets, paving, plank walks, concrete walks, crossings, bridges, catch basins for street drainage and boulevards.

Then comes the brushing and grading of dirt roads, drainage, care of street fountains, street cleaning and sprinkling, removing snow and ice, cleaning crossings, and the removal of noxious weeds.

An important item is the scavenging, meaning the removal of refuse, and the working of the incinerator, where the refuse is disposed of.

Afterwards there is the care of the city parks, and until this year carrying out any cultivation of city land which was attempted.

The city stables are also in the charge of the streets and scavenging department, where, in addition to the teams usd by the department, those belonging to other branches of the city service are looked after.

When the above program is considered carefully, it will be found to be a pretty big order, especially in a city of the area of Edmonton There is no doubt that to carry out the work to the limit would mean the expenditure of considerably more money annually than the city does now through the department. By this it is meant that during late years, owing to financial stress, it was found necessary to curtail a great deal of the work of the department, but even now it is responsible for the spending of a large sum annually.

System of Working

The department now employs about 75 laborers and foremen. Then there is Superintendent Alton, and the office staff consists of a female accountant, but as the department offices are situated in the civic block along with the engineer's department, help in the office work is rendered by the engineer's staff.

The system of outside working is that the city is split up into districts, and in each is stationed a foreman and gang, which varies in size according to the work to be done, and each gang is responsible for all the work of the department in its particular district.

For instance, there is one foreman in charge of all the district west of 101st street and north of the river, and he has to assume charge of the maintenance of streets, sidewalks, boulevards, drainage and all matters in general appertaining to the department.

Another foreman has care of the district east, from 101st street to the Highlands and north to the boulevard. In addition to the general work of the department, as given in instances quoted above, this man has charge of all the street cleaning on the north sire of the river. This includes the teams used on the street work and the motor trucks utilized in the cleaning.

The district of another foreman ranges from 101st street to north of the boulevard and thence north and east to the city limits, including North Edmonton and the packing plant district. Like the others he is responsible for the general work of maintenance and repair.

There is one man in charge of the stables and also a night man who looks after the animals during the night and feeds them in readiness for the time when they are taken out in the morning.

Scavenging and Refuse Disposal

The scavenging on the north side of the river is in the particular charge of one employee, who sees that the districts are regularly cleaned, and whose business it is to attend to all complaints, and to see that they are remedied, if necessary.

Refuse is taken to the incinerator on the north side, which after having been out of use for some time, is again being operated. It employs three men, a first engineer, second engineer and a laborer.

On the south side, one foreman, with a gang of 9 or 10 men, covers all the work, including the general work of maintenance and repair, street cleaning and scavenging.

The incinerator on the south side is not now being operated. It is located on the Rist farm, some distance south of the city limits, and is badly situated in damp ground, the signs of which are apparent in the cracking of the walls of the building, and its consequent unsafe condition. Also it is contended that it does not pay to operate this incinerator by reason of the small quantity of refuse to be disposed of, and its distance from the main parts of the city makes for a long expensive haul.

City Owns Many Horses

Apart from the city stables on the Flats, there are stables at the west end, which are at present occupied by two horses, the team which does the scavenging work in this district.

At the stables on the south side there are eight work horses and one pony, used by the foreman in making his rounds. Two teams are used for scavenging work on the south side, and the other horses are utilized for general work, such as street cleaning, etc.

Thirty-nine horses belonging to the city are housed at the north side stables, and of these 32 are the property of the streets and scavenging department. Ten teams are used exclusively for scavenging work entirely, and this number is increased during the cold weather, when there is a large addition to the quantity of ashes to be hauled away. The other teams are used for street cleaning, picking up scrapings, hauling cinders for sidewalk construction, hauling material for road repairs, and other work of similar nature.

Motor apparatus used by the department includes two trucks, one of which runs the set of brooms which does the street sweeping, the other truck is used for picking up dirt and hauling. Then there is the big motor flusher and sprinkler, used for washing the streets. A Ford runabout is provided for the superintendent, and also a Ford truck for one of the foremen.

A Big Spending Department

To turn to one of the most important issues, that of the financial side of the working of the department, it can be stated that the average monthly payroll of the department works out at about $7,500.

The total expenditure of the department in 1917 was $115,659, this exceeding the estimate by $13,013. This year the revised estimate of the department is $103,860 and with an estimated revenue of $20,400, the net requirements are given as $83,460.

Up to the end of July of the present year the department had expended the sum of $71,000.

By way of comparison it might be stated that Calgary's estimate for streets and scavenging for the present year is $165,053.

Expenditure Has Been Reduced

Mention has been made of expenditure having been reduced in this department of late years, and what has been done can be gauged from the following totals of yearly expense, 1913, $375,551.47; 1914, $243,256.56; 1915, $102,005.03; 1916, $91,185.79; 1917, $80,531.83.

The expenditures are given after revenue has been deducted, otherwise it will be noticed that the 1917 figures cited do not coincide with a previous statement.

Some of the chief items of expenditure of the department for 1917 may be given, as follows: Street cleaning and scavenging, $72,442; streets mainteance and repairs, $31,664; maintenance of boulevards, $3,289; drainage, $5,786; destroying noxious weeds, $343.

It is pointed out by the superintendent that the fact that there are something like 40 miles of obsolete wooden sidewalks in the city, always in need of repair, helps to make the cost of maintenance run high.

Rates of Wages Paid

As the cost of labor is a big item in the department it would be well to give a statement of some of the wages paid.

In the first place there is a blacksmith's shop, of which mention has not previously been made. There is a fireman and the two men employed, and these men in addition to shoeing horses do work for all the city departments. The blacksmiths are paid at the rate of 50 cents per hour.

Other rates of wages are: Carpenters, 60c; teamsters, 37½c; street cleaners, 37½c; laborers, 37½c; incinerator engineer, $110; second engineer, $90; laborer, $70; stable foreman, $90 per month; district foreman, south side, $3; district foreman, two, at $3.50 per day, and two at 45c per hour; teamster, 45c; skilled labor foreman, 50c per hour; engineer, 50c; motormen, 50c; motormen, $3.50 per day; graderman, $3.50 per day; sidewalk construction, 40c per hour.

There is rather a curious point in existence in connection with this question of payment of employees. G. Goodall, who has spent more years in the city service than any other employee, is paid at the rate of 45c per hour for a 9-hour day, and yet Mr. Goodall is rated as assistant chief and takes charge of the department in the absence of Supt. Alton.

Supt. Alton took over the charge of the department in 1913, and previous to that he spent six years with the Canadian Pipe Company, a company which made a feature of constructing wood pipe, and for whom he sold and installed water systems. On behalf of this company Mr. Alton went to New Zealand and Australia, where he did considerable business, especially with the New Zealand government. Up to joining the company Mr. Alton was employed by the C P.R. as bridge foreman, then bridge superintendent, and when he resigned he was bridge and building master, having charge of all the bridges and buildings in the Crow's Nest section from Kootenay Landing to Medicine Hat. He is a native of Huron County.

STOMACH TROUBLE AND GENERAL DEBILITY

Dear Sir—Suffered terrible with indigestion and heart trouble; troubled all night. I was sleepless and losing strength. All the doctor's prescriptions disagreed with my stomach. I really felt I should not pull through this winter. About October I heard about this SCOTCH HERBAL CURE and decided to give it a trial. Shortly after using it I got relief. As it is an oil it seems to exercise a soothing effeit on the stomach. I am so thankful I am completely cured. One of my family suffered from poor circulation and thin blood, cold feet and hands, and has derived much benefit from it. Yours truly,

GEORGINA NEWSHALL.

RE AGAINST BISHOP'S PARTY GETTING LAND

rainian Settlers Fight Alleged ttempt to Take Ground Declared Given by Dominion

. deputation from the Ukrainian tlement of Borshehow, near Vegree, consisting of T. Goshk and D. ystash, waited on the Attorneyneral's department on Friday, seek-g information and advice regarding at is described as an attempt made the Bishop's party of the Greek rch to secure certain land for rch purposes, which had been given the Dominion government to the rainian settlement for cemetery rposes.

Ir. Prystash stated to The Bulletin t a meeting of supporters of the ek Catholic church, under Bishops, been held illegally, without giving members due and proper notice, a lawyer engaged for the purpose aking steps to get control of church perty which today stands in the ne of the people and was given them the government under the "Ceme-Ordinance" of 1918. The purpose he present delegation to the parliantary authorities was to be advised to the proper plan to pursue in rening for its proper use that land ich was given to the people, and not e it transferred to the Bishop of Greek church.

n explaining the situation Mr. yshash said that there were really parties amongst the Ukrainians, se that wanted to stay with the hop and the ancient Orthodox re-on and the young progressive Uknian party, which has more liberal democratic views. This progress-party wants to measure up to west-
Canada conditions and to do away
h the encumbrances of the past, ich were such a drag upon their adncement in their own country and ich drove them here to seek their edom.

A Ukrainian Brotherhood consisting these young progressives has been ablished in other provinces. A twoconvention was held last month
Saskatoon where such a brotherod was formed and a committee of consisting of T. Goshko and P. arich, was appointed from Alberta the purpose of organizing a otherhood here. This committee has matter in hand and are already sy making the arrangements for a nvention to be held here in the near ure, when a brotherhood embracing s section of the province will be nded.

Speaking of the relation of the Uk-nians to the Dominion, Mr. Prystash d there was a tendency to consider Ukranians in Canada as disloyal d their sentiments as pro-Austrian.
is misconception, he felt, was due to fact that most Ukranians living in nada had the misfortune to be born Austria. He denied that they were -Austrian in any respect. He said t the Ukranians were sending their ildren to our schools high schools d to our universities giving them a eral education, which was denied ir parents in the old land, making em useful and loyal Canadian citi-

RUN TO CATCH A STREET CAR CAUSES DEATH

Orville Crankhit Faints After Boarding Car and Expires Soon After Removal

Orville Frank Cronkhite, 10725 126th street, died suddenly of heart failure on his way home from work on Friday evening. He had been employed as a bookkeeper in the B. & B. department of the G.T.P. railway at Calder. Finishing his day's work about 5:35, he left to get a street car which would take him home. Running along the G.T.P. tracks to 107th avenue in order to catch a car, the exertion seemed to cause him to lose his wind. He was able, however, to board the car, but soon fainted. He was taken off the car at the corner of 118th avenue and 124th street in a helpless condition. Dr. Wilkinson happened to be passing at the moment and rendered what assistance he could, but the unfortunate man expired within a few minutes.

Detective O. J. Smith and Inspector Haig of the city police department arrived on the scene with Coroner Dr. H. Smith, who removed the body to McCoppen's parlors. Upon examining the body it was found that death was due to heart failure and it was decided that an inquest was not necessary.

Mr. Cronkhite is survived by his wife and daughter. The daughter lives at Winnipeg and she has been communicated with by wire as to the occurrence..

Let's Get Acquainted

William J. Thompson.

Turning his attention from cows to horses, W. J. Thompson, when he came west, 14 years ago, from the Ottawa valley, where he began his business career as a butter and cheese maker, went to work for the Great West Saddlery company—or rather the concern which afterwards became known by that title .

"Bill," as his business associates know him, has earned his promotion to his present job as manager of the Edmonton branch of the above-named firm, by reason of the fact that he is an inveterate worker. That peculiarity was soon discovered when he started in as a clerk in the Hutchings concern in Calgary, and it is a habit which he never seems to have gotten away from. It got him his job as traveller, at which he spent four years, and it had become deep-rooted when, nine years ago, he was asked to take the management of the Edmonton business.

At that time the Great West Saddlery company were doing a retail as well as a wholesale business. They conducted two retail stores, but later on these were both disposed of and the whole energies of Mr. Thompson and his busy staff were devoted to the wholesale end of the game. Ald. W. H. Martin, who was for a number of years manager of the Hutchings business here, bought out the retail end, retaining the same name it had borne previously. Simultaneously with the disposal of the retail business the Great West Saddlery erected and occupied its present fine structure on 104th street, where 37,500 square feet of floor space is required to handle the big volume of business being done. This company operates factories in Calgary and Winnipeg, in each of which there are about 100 employees, while warehouses are located in all the principal cities in the west, viz.: Edmonton, Saskatoon and Regina, in addition to those in which their factories are located.

Mr. Thompson is not a "jointer," belonging to no lodges, but he has plenty of friends for all that. He is, however, an enthusiastic Rotarian, and is just as hard a worker in Rotary as he is in business. It has come to be an accepted fact that when he is asked to perform any job, it will be done—and done well. He was married in Calgary, to Miss Keyes, of Pembroke, Ont., and has two children.

A dinkey engine was sent out and it also suffered a mishap. The party which arrived on Thursday were also delayed at the end of steel, but came north twenty-five miles on a hand car and got on the wrecking train that had been sent out from Lac la Biche.

DO BUILDINGS GO WITH LAND AT TAX SALE?

Litigation May Have To Settle Point Now Disturbing Purchasers.

It seems very doubtful whether persons who bought land at the tax sale on which buildings are located will ever be able to establish any right to the buildings by reason of having purchased the land at the sale.

The matter is continually being brought to the notice of the city by persons who own buildings on land included in the tax sale, it being contended that the city has no right in them, as the taxation was upon land only and not buildings. It would appear that before the matter is settled some legal action will arise.

The case so far as the city is concerned has now a different aspect in regard to the taxation and by reason of the new taxes passed this year, the land is assessed and also the increased value given by the improvements on it, which comprises all buildings, etc., and one tax notice covers the whole.

In the appeal cases being heard by the city commissioners, however, a somewhat similar point has arisen, as the question comes in a number of instances, who is to be assessed, the owner of the land, or the man who, under arrangement of the owner, has placed a building on the land.

According to the city solicitor, the city can only assess the owner of the land, as the taxation is on the increased value of the land given by the improvements, and the city will adhere to this course of taxing the owner of land for the land and whatever buildings there may be on it.

The appeals of the Hudson's Bay company against their business assessment and improvements assessments, were heard on Friday morning, but decision has been deferred. Some reduction was given to the E. D. & B. C. railway on its improvements assessment and the business assessment appeal was adjourned. All the railroad companies in the city are affected by their agreements so far as the taxation is concerned and it will be some time before cases are got into shape.

Following the appeal of the Credit Foncier company the improvement assessment of the Powell block was reduced to $18,000 and the McCosham building to $33,000. The Credit Foncier business assessment was fixed at $1,800. The assessment of Mr. Dawson's house, at Brighton, on the South Side, overlooking the river, was fixed at $18,000 on a valuation of $30,000.

A Long Steamboat Journey

Geo. Slater, manager of the Northern Trading Company, arrived from the north on Thursday, returning from a trip to Macpherson, which he made from McMurray to Fitzgerald on the trading company's steamer, Northland Echo, and from Smith to Macpherson and return on the Northland Trader. He made a second trip from Smith to Norman and return to Smith before coming south on the Echo to McMurray. The Trader took the summer mail to Macpherson, the most northerly Hudson's Bay Company post on the waters of the Mackenzie. It is situated on Peel river, a great tributary, which enters the delta of the Mackenzie from the west. It is over 10 0miles north of the Arctic Circle. The Northern Trading Company's most northerly post is the junction of the Arctic Red River with the Mackenzie. It is about forty miles east of Macpherson.

The season was backward in the north. The ice of Great Bear Lake had not moved on August 1st. The frost of July 23 was felt throughout the Mackenzie basin. Potato tops were cut down everywhere and new growth took place after the frost. But it is not expected that there will be a good crop. Mr. Slater was at Smith when the frost occurred.. The severity of the frost was about the same as at Edmonton.

The ice in the river was still firm when the rush of water drove it out. This caused high water at all points.

The Trading company suffered serious loss at McMurray from the high water and ice. At Simpson, on the Mackenzie, the water rose 60 feet above low level, and was within a foot of the top of the river bank.

There was no special sickness among the Indians of the Mackenzie last winter, but on the Arctic coast there was a typhoid outbreak which caused several deaths amongst both Huskies and whites. This was the disease that nearly carried off Explorer Steffansson. Constable Lamont, who attended Steffansson during his illness, contracted the disease and died.

The fur catch was good in the Mackenzie country, but there were no rabbits.

An Esquimo family from Coronation Gulf, into which the Coppermine river empties on the Arctic coast, and the scene of the murders for which two Esquimos were convicted at Calgary last year, were brought up on the steamer to Resolution, where they will take a year of instruction at the Roman Catholic Mission. The family comprised a man, his wife and two children.

The mail service to the far north comprises one summer and one winter mail to Macpherson. Seven mails a year to Simpson, and ten a year from MacMurray to Smith and Resolution.

A party which left Athabasca in June with a gas boat for the lower Mackenzie were having their boat taken across the Smith Portage when Mr. Slater and party left there for MacMurray.

APPEAL COURT WILL BE HELD SEPT. 2

Objections to Business and Improvements Assessments to Be Considered

At the council meteing on Friday night following a report from the city clerk that several notices of appeal to the city council against business and improvements assessments had been received, it was decided to hold an appeal court on Thursday, September 12, for the purpose of hearing appeals against business and improvements assessments. Council will sit for this purpose at 2:30 in the afternoon.

It was decided that certain residents in the West End should be allowed to plow and cultivate the piece of land at the junction of 100th avenue and 116th street on the river bank, but council decided that applicants would have to be made responsible for satisfactorily carrying out and conclusion of the work.

TRAVELLERS FROM THE NORTH

Several passenegrs from the far north arrived by Thursday's Waterways train from Lac la Biche. They included George Slater, of the Northern Trading Co.; Fred Fraser, and Alex Luted, of Chipewyan, and Frank Hearn and Michael Bouvier, of Providence. The two latter are called out under the Military Service Act.

A large party from the north are expected on tomorrow's Lac la Biche train.

CONGRATULATE FR. PILON ON NEW DIGNITY

Parishioners of Sacred Heart Church Present Address and Gifts.

A reception was held Thursday night in the hall of the Sacred Heart church, 96th street, which was very largely attended by both the clergy and laity of the diocese. It was for the purpose of making a presentation and presenting addresses of congratulation to the Rev. Father Pilon, pastor of the church, on the dignity which has been conferred upon him in his appointment as vicar-general of the diocese of Edmonton.

Amongst those present were Archbishop Legal, Rev. Fathers Drummond, S.J., Celestine, LaRose, Ouillette, Murphy, Lacoste, Hetu, Grandin, Myers, Merer, Le Passe, L. Pilon (brother of Monsignor Pilon) and many others.

Walter Young made an efficient master of ceremonies.

Addresses of congratulation, read by T. McGee, were presented by the following:

Jesuit College, signed by Father Huret, rector; Knights of Columbus, signed by Mr. Gilmurray on behalf of the Knights; Catholic Mutual Benefit Society of the Sacred Heart, Edmonton; Conference of St. Vincent de Paul Society, signed by R. J. Collins, sec., on behalf of members; by the Catholic Women's League, signed by Mrs. Duggan, president; Mrs. Underwood, recording secretary; Mrs. Hawkins, treasurer; Mrs. P. B. Sullivan, corresponding secretary, on behalf of members of the League, and the League of the Sacred Heart, signed by Mrs. Hawkins.

A very attractive musical program was presented in which the following gave vocal selections: Mrs. C. Gowan, Mrs. A. Frederick and Miss Mitchell.

The Cecilia Orchestra, under the able direction of A. M. Forest, rendered very pleasing selections.

A farce, "In a Photograph Gallery," presented by juvenile performers, was very well done.

The musical part of the program concluded with songs and dances by the ever popular Martin children who were several times encored.

The presentation took the form of a beautiful chalice and a purse from the parishioners, which was presented by Mr. Hanley, previous to which W. J. Connolly read the address from the parishioners of Father Pilon's church.

Father Molliet thanked Archbishop Legal for the signal honor conferred on Father Pilon, also the parishioners and friends for their kindness in showing their appreciation of their pastor in so striking a manner.

Rev. Father Drummond, S.J., also thanked the archibshop for the wise choice he had made in selecting Monsignor Pilon as successor to their late vicar general, Father Leduc, pioneer of the west for over fifty years. In making this choice, said he, his grace knew the sterling qualities possessed by Monsignor Pilon, he recognized his administravtive powers, his usefulness, prudence and devotion to the church and his business ability. Their pastor in his everyday life combines the ideal with the practical, and has through his untiring energy made the Sacred Heart church and rectory a credit to the parish. He wished Monsignor Pilon many years to administer his new and increasing duties, and hoped in the future they might hear of further honors conferred upon him.

Archbishop Legal said he was pleased to see the appointment he had made of Monsignor Pilon as vicar general of the diocese had met with the approbation of the Roman Catholics of Edmonton, as was shown by the large attendance, and he felt that Monsignor Pilon would prove a worthy successor to the late Father Leduc.

Monsignor Pilon very feelingly replied and expressed his great thangs to the archbishop, his parishioners and all his friends who had so kindly and generously showed so many marks of their appreciation and friendship for which he would be very grateful.

The proceedings concluded with the singing of the National Anthem by the entire audience.

The Daily Poem

A BLINDED "POILU" TO HIS NURSE

I know you only by your tears . . .
  I felt them falling on my face.
I had wakened on a hush of dark,
  And lay I knew not in what place.

O lady, not a dream was mine!
  Despair had told the truth to me,
And I was fearful of life's call,
  And bitter with my destiny.

But the warm touches of your soul
  Guided me to the darkened years.
Sweet reconciler of my days,
  I know you only by your tears.

The Wood Buffalo

P. McCallum, an Edmonton old-timer, who went north with the Klondike rush and has since lived in the Mackenzie river country, is making a short visit to Edmonton. He has resided at Fort Smith for several years past, where he has been employed as warden of the buffalo which range the country west of the Great Slave river to the Cariboo mountains and northward from the Peace to Great Slave lake. Contrary to general belief, Mr. McCollum says the herd or herds are increasing, not diminishing.

There are two main herds. One ranges from the Peace river north and the other from Great Slave lake south. There is a belt of country between the respective ranges in which there are no buffalo. Mr. McCallum was especially charged with the protection of the more southerly herd. He estimates the present number at about 800. In the summer of 1917 he personally counted over 100 calves. He saw the northern herd in 1913 and believes from what he saw that the northern herd is more numerous than the southern one. The country in which the buffalo range is chiefly wooded, with some openings, and there is never any large number of the animals together, so that an accurate count of their numbers is practically impossible.

Reports of the killing of buffalo by wolves he believes to have been much exaggerated. Wolves are not numerous in the buffalo country. They are attracted rather to the country of the cariboo, which are easier prey than the buffalo. Mr. McCallum is satisfied that buffalo in bands are able to protect themselves from wolves.

The buffalo of the southern band roam over a territory of about 150 miles from north to south, by 100 from east to west. They are chiefly found west of the Buffalo river, but they come east of it to the licks of the salt river The northern band are said by the Indians to have formerly ranged north of Ft. Providence on the Mackenzie and below Great Slave lake. But about forty years ago they emigrated to the region south of Great Slave lake and between the Buffalo and Hay rivers, where they have since flourished. The country is generally low lying and much wooded, but they seem to do well. In winter the buffalo of both herds browse on the brush and moss, as do the moose, when they cannot get grass. The animals are much larger than the buffalo of the prairies. One killed by Radford under special permit the winter before he himself was killed by Esquimaux weighed 2,740 pounds. It was not considered to be a specially large one.

Speaking of the fur trade Mr. McCallum said that while the catch was light the prices were high enough to make up for the light catch. Red fox that used to bring $5 to $3 sold for $20 to $40; marten, formerly $5 to $8, brought $10 to $20; lynx, formerly $8, brought $10 to $15; beaver, formerly 5 to $7, brought $10 to $18; mink, formerly 1.50, brought $4; muskrat, formerly 25 cents, brought 75 cents; wolverine, formerly $5, brought $10; fisher, formerly $10 to $12, brought $20 to $25; otter, formerly $10 to$11, brought $15. The only drop was in silver fox, which declined from $200 to $125 for the same quality.

Mr. McCallum left Resolution on July 21st by the Northland Trader. Left Fitzgerald or Smith Landing on Thursday the 25th on the Echo. Left Chipewyan on Friday night and reached McMurray on Saturday night, July 28th. On Monday the party reached the end of steel and arrived in Edmonton on Thursday, August 1st.

The party included Colin Fraser, trader of Chipewyan, Percy Round of Fitzgerald, J. Cameron of Ft. Simpson, and others to the number of ten or twelve. Round and Cameron were called up for military service, but were found at Calgary to be medically unfit and will return north.

Weddings

PIERCE—MORRIS

At the home of the bride's parents, 10017 102nd avenue, on Friday evening at 6 o'clock, a pretty wedding took place, when Marjorie Victoria, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Morris, was married to Thomas Howe Pierce, youngest son of Mrs. Mary Pierce of Calgary. Rev. A. S. Tuttle performed the ceremony in the presence of about twenty-five of the immediate friends of the contracting parties. The bride wore a gown of grey satin and carried a bouquet of white bride roses. Miss Jeanette Barrett played the Wedding March as the bride entered the drawing room with a bower of late summer flowers and ferns. Miss Adella Morris, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid, and Mr. Dubord of Prince Rupert supported the groom.

After the ceremony the guests sat down to a wedding supper, followed immediately by a reception. Mr. and Mrs. Pierce have taken a suite in the Trent Apartments and repaired to their new home after the reception.

The wedding gifts were numerous and very pretty, including many pieces of cut glass, silver and china. Mrs. Pierce will be at home the second week in September.

Boys at Front Delighted with St John's Parcels

The following are extracts received by the St. John Working Committee from soldiers at the front:

"I am sending you this rather belated letter to thank you for the very interesting letter you sent me, and also the St. John's for the most welcome parcel of comforts which I received a week ago. I can assure you the contents were very much appreciated, the boys being especially delighted with the number and the high quality of the socks and as most of my chums are from British Columbia, I was not slow to point out to them that everything that comes from Alberta is of the highest quality."

Another man writes: "The parcel is in good condition, and you can just bet the contents are welcome. I believe the people of Canada must know just what we need here. When I see socks like these I know that it's all up with Fritz. More than that, its coming from Edmonton makes it all the better."

TELL YOUR WIFE
CORNS LIFT OFF

Doesn't hurt a bit to lift corns or calluses off with fingers

Not a twinge of pain or soreness before applying, or afterwards. This may sound like a dream to corn-pestered men and women who have been cutting, filing and wearing torturous plasters. Yes! Corns lift out and calluses peel off as if by magic, says this Cincinnati authority.

A quarter ounce of freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops directly upon your tender corn or callus, and instantly the soreness disappears; then shortly the corn or callus will be so loose that it lifts off.

Freezone dries instantly. It doesn't eat out the corn or callus, but just shrivels it up so it lifts away without even irritating the surrounding skin. Women should keep it on the dresser and never let a corn or callus ache twice.

DATE OF AMNESTY TO DESERTERS WILL NOT BE EXTENDED

But Reasons for Delay Given by Those Reporting Will Get Full Consideration

OTTAWA, Aug. 30.—There is to be no extension of the date of amnesty to deserters.

"It is not possible," reads an official announcement, "to extend the delay of general amnesty to defaulters under the Military Service Act. All, however, should be urged to report voluntarily and promptly. Those whom it will be necessary to bring in compulsorily will be rigorously dealt with. Those promptly reporting will have every consideration given to reasons for delay and to circumstances which may excuse it.

An official statement showing how far advantage has been taken of the amnesty will be issued shortly. So far it has not been possible to compile complete figures owing to the rush of men to come in during the last few days. It is expected that final returns will show a heavy reduction in the percentage of defaulters under the act.

PARIS EXULTS; HUNS ARE NO MORE AT NOYON

But Slow to Shout Victory; Huns Still Full of Fight.

Paris, Aug. 30.—"The Germans are no more at Noyon," exclaim the newspapers of Paris in triumphant heavy type this morning.

While all are exultant and all believe that the situation for the Allies is more brilliant than ever, yet previous experience makes Frenchmen slow to shout victory. It is realized that the Germans, although beaten, are still full of fight, but they are undoubtedly in an awkward predicament.

Operations during the past week have left their front running north and south instead of northwest and southeast, as it should be to permit an orderly retreat to the Hindenburg line where they hope to spend the winter, keeping the Allies on the barren and desolate ground to the west of that famous position. The enemy is now some dozen miles from that line and the Bapaume-Peronne road is being cut.

Unless he can mark time for a while on the Tortille river he will not be able to hold the Peronne-Ham road, which is particularly valuable as it runs along the Somme. Water is the only thing that can stop tanks. Once across the Somme there is nothing behind the enemy but a wide plain cut only by the Ofignon river, which is useless to him since it runs perpendicular to the front. At the same time he will be obliged to hold back General Mangin south of the Oise, where the French army forms a dangerous, aggressive hook in the German flank.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1918

May It Be Soon.

The Mexicans are again demonstrating to the world at large, and the United States in particular, that what they need most is one good walloping. Here's hoping that Uncle Sam can spare the men and the time to give it to them.

Canada Should Be There.

The decision that Canada will supply a contingent of troops for the Allied campaign in Siberia will need no justification to the Canadian people. Wherever there is a chance to hit the Hun he ought to be hit, and Siberia is a corner in which he particularly needs hitting. To let Germany mobilize Russia with the help of the Bolsheviki would more than restore the losses that have been inflicted upon the German power in four years of fighting, and present us with a task larger than at the beginning. There are signs in plenty that the Russian people are waking up to the plot to draft them and the resources of their country into the fighting forces of the Kaiser, and that they are developing a spirit of resistance to the process. Left to themselves, without organization or equipment, they would be as helpless as a mob confronting an army. With Allied expeditions in Siberia and in northern Russia, to give direction and inspiration and form nucleii about which the Russians can rally, there is hope of an uprising that will break up Berlin's plans and prevent Russia being made a recruiting ground and supply depot for the enemy—if it does not even bring Russia back as a fighting ally and restore the Eastern front. The force Canada proposes to send to Siberia is not large but it will be representative. To leave Canada without representation in the Allied operations there would certainly not be desirable.

Prices Forbid

The food board has published the prices at which substitutes for wheat flour should be obtainable. The prices are not fixed, but are given as those the board consider reasonable. Assuming that the profiteer does not take advantage of the board's inaction and do some "fixing" on his own account, the prices of the substitutes are obviously such as to discourage substitution rather than encourage it. From force of habit, if not from taste, people prefer wheat flour to flour made from corn, barley, rye or oats, and only the inducement of patriotism or price can influence them to use these and spare the wheat flour. But the influence of price is all the other way. Flours made from the coarse grains all cost more than flour made from wheat. The effect, especially at a time when everything is dear, is certain; the substitutes are not used, and cannot be, in the proportion to which they could and should be used. In the case of corn, which is imported, and of barley and rye, which are produced in limited quantities, it may not be practicable to bring the cost of the flour down to that of the wheat product. But it surely is remarkable that in the best oat growing country in the world, and one in which oats are grown to such an extent, oat flour should not be available at less than wheat flour at a time when the world is short of wheat. A lack of facilities for making oat flour may account for the price. But that contingency should have been foreseen and provided for. The authorities have known for two years that wheat was scarce and have been urging the public to eat oat products instead. Why has not provision been made for supplying the market with oat flour at prices which would encourage, and not forbid, compliance?

Almost.

Almost looks like a "toss up" whether the French and Americans can run Fritz out of the salient before the British up north drive so far in that he can't get out.

One View of It.

The suspense is ended. School reopens on Tuesday. Having endured the hardships of out-door life through the long hot summer, Willie will now gleefully return to his comfortable winter quarters and the inspiring privilege of acquiring a fund of useful and interesting information ! ! !

Explanations, Please!

At Niagara camp thirteen "conscientious objectors" have been tried by court martial and sentenced to penal servitude for refusing to obey orders. Niagara, it is to be noted, is in the Province of Ontario, and fifty miles from Toronto, the home of Pig Business and chief radiating centre of patriotic professions!

A Chance to Star.

Dispatches from "An Atlantic Port" indicate that the party of alleged "Canadian editors" who have been making a Cook's tour of England and France at the expense of the Canadian cement merger have reached home safely, and may soon be expected to start out to tell us how Sir Max Aiken is winning the war. It is to be hoped they will not forget to show how the foundations of Empire were made solid and the pillars of civilization strengthened by the stock-jobbery and thimble-rigging tactics whereby Lord Beaverbrook crushed the life out of independent Canadian cement companies and amasesd the money to hand out free steamship tickets and meals to Unionist newspapermen. Likewise what the men in khaki thought of a party of able-bodied business-managers and job-printers picnicing about the back areas of the fighting zone in civilian attire. As prospective lecturers they certainly cannot be lacking in material.

Try Something Else.

R. L. Richardson, M.P., explains that Premier Borden had to stay in England to hold back the British people from being stampeded by Lord Lansdowne into a "made in Germany" peace. That may be Mr. Richardson's impression of it, as it may even have been what Sir Robert thought he was doing, but really it seems a bit far-fetched. There have not been any indications that Lord Lansdowne had the British people buffaloed, and if he had there is no reason to suspect that Sir Robert could stop the rush. England does not have to come to Canada to learn how to take care of itself. What a German peace would mean the British people are well situated to know, and do know. Lansdowne's letters deceived nobody but his own set, an impotent element who would rather be lords and dukes by consent of the Kaiser than run chances of being only commoners in a free democracy. If they had deluded the nation or any considerable section of it the echoes of the controversy would have floated across the Atlantic. There are some very smart men in Great Britain, and if Lansdowneism had been at all dangerous they would have been heard from. The notion that Sir Robert by exuding influence kept the British people from selling out themselves, their principles, their children and their allies to the Huns—well it doesn't sound convincing. Canadians have a better opinion of the British people than that.

PENSIONS (?)

Returned Soldier in Toronto Telegram

I went through the winter of 1915-16, serving seven months up to our knees in mud and water. I was wounded at St. Eloi, and went through a severe operation for catarrh, being two hours on the table, and spent six months in hospital. I was rejected by three medical boards for further service in France, and was again sent home to Canada. I was six months at Whitby, and was discharged in February.

I was taken in front of a board, and without examination they asked me how I felt. I said, "fairly good." What do you mean by "fairly good," they asked. I said I had pains at the base of my ribs and across the small of the back and dizzy spells at times, which made me very nervous. "All right, you can go," I was told. I heard nothing for seven months until I got the letter with $50, saying that is all the Pension Board would allow.

BEAVERBROOK AND HIS SILLY JOB

Toronto Saturday night

The House of Commons and the London press have been discussing the question as to whether or not Lord Beaverbrook and his Propaganda Department are worth the money, and the consensus of opinion seems to be that it is not. One Beaverbrooker made the statement that the "department had interpreted the spirit of Britain to the world and had counteracted the enemy in many parts, notably in Canada." This will be news to Canadians. In the first place there was no need of "counteracting the enemy in Canada." All the counteracting necessary was done by the authorities in the way of internment long before Beaverbrook inaugurated his silly department. The London "News" asks who in Canada or Britain would take Beaverbrook for their political guide? Well, who would?

THE ENLISTMENT FIGURES

Victoria Times

The figures issued by Ottawa yesterday regarding the operation of the Military Service Act call for some explanation. They show that the total number of recruits obtained under the Act is 58,713, the various parts of Canada contributing as follows: West of Great Lakes, 22,771; Ontario, 19,999; Quebec, 8,837; Maritime Provinces, 7,106.

Hence, Western Canada contributed within some 6,000 of the combined totals of Ontario and Quebec, which represent a population of nearly 5,000,000. The population of the four Western Provinces is a little over 2,000,000 and that of Ontario is probably half a million greater. Further, the Western Provinces had enlisted a much larger percentage of their population than the eastern Provinces under the voluntary system, and their manpower situation is more acute than that of Canada beyond the Great Lakes.

The West expressed itself in favor of the energetic enforcement of the Military Service Act by giving the Union Government the greater part of its majority on this issue. But it demands that the law be enforced as vigorously in eastern Canada as it is in its own section. That this is not being done is proven by the latest figures.

We also would like some explanation of the 23,523 "discharged or on leave without expense to the country" and who are not recorded as having been obtained under the Military Service Act. Of what do they consist and what are they doing? We note also that out of 109,528 ordered to report by the registrars 37,188 failed to respond. This is an extraordinarily large proportion of defaulters and the Government should satisfy the country that it is making every possible attempt to round them up, or there will develop a very general suspicion in the West that political pressure as expressed in the recent demonstration by the Ontario farmers is interfering with the fair enforcement of the Act.

LEGAL INQUIRIES

Legal questions will be answered in the columns of The Bulletin, after being submitted to The Bulletin's own legal representative. Write on one side of the paper only. Be brief. Send stamped envelope for reply.

All inquiries addressed to this column must bear name of inquirier, but the name will not be used in publication if so desired.

To The Bulletin Legal Dept.: I am a member of the Leduc Farmers- Co-Operative association. The directors refuse to furnish me and other members with a written statement of the auditors' annual report as they promised in the prospectus when soliciting funds. This being a registered company I shall be obliged to know if the government registrar or any other person in authority can see that we are supplied with such a statement.

A Dissatisfied Member.

The Co-Operative Associations' act provides that the association must supply a copy of the last annual return to every member or person interested in the funds of the association, upon application, and also that they must keep a copy of the last balance sheet together with a report of the auditors, hung up in a conspicuous place in the head office of the association. If any of the officers refuse to furnish a copy of the return they are guilty of an offence against the Act and upon summary conviction before any two Justices of the Peace they are personally liable to a penalty not exceeding $100 and costs. We would suggest that you make a formal application for a copy of the return and if it is not forthcoming within a reasonable time have a solicitor take proceedings against the officials under the Act.

To The Bulletin Legal Dept.: I have this year cut some hay on C.P.R. land. I have cut some each year for the past seven years. I need the hay for my cattle and I have gone to much trouble to cut some very rough places to get the hay. Now I have heard the C.P.R. intend to cut some themselves. Can they take that hay which I have put up. I am willing to pay for the hay the usual price if they will allow me to keep it. If they take it have they to pay taxes on that section afterwards? I did not know anything before I had the hay all put in the stack.

A Subscriber.

The fact that you have cut the hay for a number of years does not give you any right to it and if the company want the hay they can take it as it belongs to them. The C.P.R. land grant provides that their land grant shall be exempt from taxes for twenty years after the issue of the patent or until the land is either sold or occupied. We do not think that by cutting the hay on the land the company could be said to be occupying it and therefore, we do not think they would have to pay taxes simply because they have cut hay on the land.

Afterward

In the Afterward, when I am dead,
I want no flowers over my head.

But if Fate and the Gods are kind to me
They'll send me a Sikh half company
To fire three volleys over my head—
To sweeten my sleep, when I am dead.

And many shall sneer: But Some One shall sigh,
Yet I shall not hear them as there I lie,
For this is the Law of Lover and friend—
That all joy must finish, all feeling end.

And many shall laugh: But Some One shall weep,
Yet I shall not know—I shall lie asleep;
A worn-out body, a dried-up crust;
Ashes to ashes and dust to dust!

And they'll drink a toast up there in the Mess,
"Here's to a friend in his loneliness!"
And music and talk for a while shall cease
While my Brothers drink to their Brother's Peace.

And the Sikhs shall say (that were once mine own);
"Who rode with us often now rides alone!"
And leaning over the grave they'll sigh
"Sahib murgya! Ki jae, Ki jae!"

And I, who so loved them one and all,
Shall stir no more at the bugle-call,
But another Sahib shall ride instead
At the head of my Sikhs, when I am dead.
And even this thought which hurts me so
Shall cease to trouble me when I go.

My chestnut charger, Mam'selle
(She was fleet of foot and I loved her well!)
Shall nibble the grass above my head,
Unknowing that one she loved is dead.

Some one—my Horse and my Company
Shall fail to smile at the comedy;
Shall strive to reason, yet fail to guess
That Life is little and Death is less!

And they shall sorrow a little space
Till somebody comes to fill my place;
But all their sorrow, their grief and pain,
They shall expend upon me—in vain!

And you—if you read this epitaph—
Harden your heart, I pray you laugh!
But if you would deal with me tenderly
Place one dew-kissed violet over me;
I claim not this and ask no more,
Yet—this was the flow'r that Some One wore
In the long dead days that have gone before.

—Capt. Cyril Morton Horn.

Three in One.

Willie—Paw, what is the best way to combine faith, hope and charity?

Paw—By lending a man your umbrella, my son.

GOMPERS' VISIT TURNS EYES ON BRITISH LABOR

Newspapers Welcome Declaration of No Compromise with Hun Enemies.

London, Aug. 30—(By the A.P.)—The newspapers all print editorials welcoming Samuel Gompers and other American labor leaders, and give marked prominence to the declaration of Mr. Gompers that the labor men of the United States are in favor of a war to the finish without compromise and will have no part in unofficial negotiations with Socialists of enemy countries.

The Gompers party confronts a situation in the British labor world which on its face appears to be a delicate one. Spokesmen for British working men are sharply divided on the question of peace terms and particularly on the question which has arisen several times in the past year as to whether British labor representatives should meet representatives of the German majority Socialists at some neutral capital to discuss war questions. There is no doubt that a large majority of British working men are with the Americans on the main issue.

Internationalists

But some spokesmen of those who pass current with the general public as spokesmen for the labor men and the labor party, which promises to become a powerful factor in British politics, are what are termed internationalists. It is certain that the most prominent of them are not working men, but theoretical Socialists who have gained prominence in the labor party. Arthur Henderson, recently a member of the British cabinet, is the most conspicuous of the leaders who would confer with the Germans. The independent labor party which has in its ranks only a small fraction of the members of unions goes even further than Mr. Henderson and is commonly known as the pacificist or peace-at-any-price party.

On the other hand, there are the leaders of the type of J. Havelock Wilson, the head of the seamen's union, which is getting up a monster petition for a boycott of German shipping and sailors after the war on account of the treatment given Allied and neutral sailors by submarines. Earl Curzon, government leader in the House of Lords, is one of the signers of the seamen's petition to the House of Commons.

Trades Union Convention

The annual trades union convention, which represents a great majority of union men, will be held in Derby next week. Mr. Gompers and some of his colleagues are accredited to its as fraternal delegates.

Mr. Gompers also will make a speech at the inter-Allied labor conference which meets in Paris in September. The conference was called by the secretary of the French labor confederation to consider international problems, especially war questions.

Another meeting in which the Americans will participate will be the inter-Allied labor and Socialist conference to be held in London in September, principally to consider replies of enemy Socialists to the Allied Socialist war memorandum.

London, Aug. 30—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, yesterday visited his boyhood home in the little section of East London, known as Spittlegate, where he was born 68 years ago. Mr. Gompers had only visited England once before since he had left as a boy to seek his fortune in America. His previous visit was nine years ago.

FOR THE YOUNG PEOPLE

LABOR'S DAY

"Quick! Quick!" shouted Donny. "Here comes the parade!"

His sister, Jeanette, and his brother, Pete, came running. The band was playing and behind it marched a lot of stalwart men.

"What's it for? What's it for?" asked little Pete.

"It's Labor Day," replied Donny.

Peter had to be satisfied with this answer, though he had lots of questions to ask. It was lucky for him that John Pine came calling that afternoon. He was Big Sister Carrie's friend, and a fine, strong young man he was. Pete met him at the door, for they were good friends.

"Did you parade?" asked Pete, because he knew that John Pine worked in the steel factory.

"Yes, indeed!" replied John Pine. "Isn't this Labor Day? I'd be ashamed of myself if I hadn't the right to parade today!"

"I should think you'd labor on Labor Day," said Pete. "Why did you parade?"

"Well," John Pine said, sitting down on the porch steps, "maybe the name doesn't tell what the day means. It ought to be Labor's Day, because it's a day set aside to honor labor. We keep Mothers' Day and Thanksgiving and a lot of other days, which is right, of course, but the working people ought to be honored too. We ought to be reminded that we all owe a great deal to labor—rich and poor alike."

"I don't see why we have to be so grateful to labor," said Sister Carrie, who had come out and heard the last part of what John Pine had been saying.

"Well, now, suppose there weren't any working people, suppose all the mills shut down and factories and banks closed because there were no people to work in them, what would become of us all?"

"We'd had to do a lot of things for ourselves, just as the pioneers did," replied Sister Carrie.

"What things?" asked Pete.

"Everything," said Sister Carrie. "We'd have to weave our own cloth for clothes and make our own shoes and soap and carpets and—"

"Even pens," put in John Pine. "Do you know, people used to have to use goose quills sharpened to a point for pens? You see, there are and always have been, rich people and poor people. The poor people have usually had the worst of it. They had had to work hard for the rich people. Long ago, poor people were usually slaves. They had no rights at all and had to work hard for no pay. It took a long time for rich people to understand that no real good could come of anything that wasn't good for all. As long as a lot of people were kept poor and ignorant, nobody in the land could become really wise or happy."

"You don't like rich people, do you?" laughed Sister Carrie.

"Oh, yes, very much if they are nice," replied John Pine. "I was just trying to tell how it is that we keep Labor Day. And to show you why it is right to keep it."

"Would I have been a slave if I'd been living in those days?" asked Pete very anxiously, for he had a keen imagination.

"Very likely," replied John Pine. "Most people were slaves. But, cheer up. Slavery did last a long time and was a terrible thing, but at last things got a little better, and poor people managed to get out of slavery into serfdom."

"What's that?" asked Pete, still looking anxious.

"Serfdom was only a little bit better than slavery," said John Pine, "but it was better. Poor people who lived on rich people's land were serfs and had a hard enough time, but they had rights too, not all the rights they should have had, but some rights. Free labor—such as we have now—didn't come for a long time, because poor people were ignorant in those days and don't know how to free themselves. You see, there were no public schools, and only rich people could afford to be educated. I think England was the first country to have free labor, but Russia didn't have it until very lately."

"America had it though, didn't it?" asked Pete with a satisfied look.

"Oh, yes," replied John Pine. "America did make slaves of the colored people, which was very wrong, but at heart she has always stood for justice and liberty. About fifty years ago some workmen in the United States joined together and called themselves the 'Knights of Labor.' Nobody but working people were allowed to join, and their aim was to make the rich people treat poor people justly. Now, they argued, poor people can't live without money, and the rich people have the money, so it looks as if the poor people will always have to do just as the rich people say. But rich people can't get along without food and clothes and railroads and houses and thousands of things, which we are giving them by our labor. Now, we will all stop working a while, just to show them that we are important too."

"Oh, they went on strike!" exclaimed Pete, who was a bright little fellow.

"They did!" said John Pine, smiling. "They said, 'Now, we will join together and try to make the rich people give us enough pay so we can live better.' They had a hard time making people see that point of view, because rich people kept saying, 'If it hadn't been for our money there would be no factories and mills and stores, then what would you poor people do for jobs?' And the Knights of Labor replied, 'Yes, and where would your factories and mills and stores be if you had nobody to run them?' "

"Both were right," said Sister Carrie.

"Yes, but in those days rich people had the upper hand. They paid working people so little that they had to put their young children and wives to work. Now, instead of the Knight's of Labor we have the American Federation of Labor and each trade has a union, which is supposed to look after the rights of the men. The big, rich companies are no longer allowed to take advantage of poor working people. They had to pay good wages. Once upon a time the big, rich companies would pay no money to poor workers. They used to pay wages by giving orders on stores—for instance, you could go and buy a dollar's worth of goods at a store instead of having the dollar given to you. The stores were owned by the companies and they charged a great deal more for goods than they should have, so the workers were always kept very poor."

"I Should Think You'd Labor On Labor Day," Said Pete.

"Ugh! I hate rich people!" cried Pete, who had the American love of fairness.

"Oh, no!" said John Pine, earnestly. "The rich people were not to blame. They didn't know any better. Now, they are beginning to understand and a lot of them are in full sympathy with workers. They gladly help them all the time. Anybody who is industrious and thrifty has a chance to become rich nowadays. We have free schools, industrial schools, lectures, public libraries, museums and a lot of chances to become wise and educated. After the war I know things will become better and better."

"So Labor Day is meant to remind us of all this!" said Carrie.

"And to bring rich people and workers together in a friendly way," added John Pine. "For we all need each other and we ought to pull together—especially now when the soldiers of labor and soldiers of war are fighting together for Liberty!"

Little Stories For Bedtime

Uncle Wiggily and the Catfish.

Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Well, it didn't work, did it?" asked the sea urchin.

"No, it didn't," crossly answered the dog fish. "But it would have, only the big wave washed off the seaweed I stuck on to make me look like Jackie Bow Wow."

"And we are right back where we started," said the lobster. "How are we going to catch Uncle Wiggily Longears?"

The bad animals, on the floor of the ocean, were talking among themselves about how to catch the bunny rabbit gentleman. Uncle Wiggily was spending his vacation at the seashore in his hollow stump bungalow with Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. And, as I told you in the story last night, the bad dog fish made up to look like Jackie Bow Wow and tried to fool the bunny. But he didn't make out very well.

"Well, somebody's got to catch that bunny for the Skeezicks, else we'll never get our lollypops," said the dog fish. "Who's going to try next?"

"I will," said the catfish. "I'll make a wish, and make my tail go 'swish-swish!' I'll get Uncle Wiggily!"

"All right, you may try," said the lobster. "But you'll have to fool him better than did the dog fish."

"Leave it to me," said the catfish, sort of blinking her eyes rice pudding fashion.

Now, of course, Uncle Wiggily knew nothing about this, nor did Nurse Jane. The bunny and the muskrat lady put on their bathing suits, and down to the seashore beach they hopped, skipped and jumped to have a dip in the ocean.

"I wonder what sort of an adventure I'll have today?" spoke Mr. Longears.

"Well, don't take any chances," said Nurse Jane. "If you see anything strange come up out of the ocean, call me."

"I will," promised the bunny.

He and Nurse Jane went down to the bathing beach, and soon they were splashing about in the water. They were having fine fun, splashing about in the waves, when, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily heard a voice crying:

"Oh, save me! Save me! Grab me quick or I'll sink! Oh, dear!"

"Ha! That sounds like trouble!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, raising himself in the water and looking about. "I must help whoever it is, and maybe I'll have an adventure."

Then he saw some one struggling in the waves near him and he made a grab, at the same time saying:

"Why, Kittie Kat! I didn't know you were down here! And you almost drowned, too! Never mind, I'll save you!"

"I wish you would," said a mewing voice. "Please take me out a little farther, where the water is deeper, and then I think I'll feel better."

"You want me to take you out where the water is deep!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Why, Kittie Kat! That would never do! You are in too deep water now. I'll swim to shore with you."

Then he made a grab for some one that looked just like Kittie Kat the pussy girl. The creature in the water had paws and a long, silky tail and it mewed. Uncle Wiggily felt sure it was Kitty Kat, who, with her brothers, Tommie and Joie, had come to the seashore for the rest of the summer.

"Come right over this way and I'll save you," kindly said Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, you only think you will," said a soft mewing voice, but so soft that Uncle Wiggily could not hear it. "I guess I'll soon be pulling you down under the waves," the voice went on.

Uncle Wiggily was swimming toward shore with what he thought was Kittie Kat, when, all of a sudden, along came swimming Peetie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boy. And he was the real Peetie, and not a dog fish made up to look like him.

And, all at once, Peetie began barking and snapping at the creature Uncle Wiggily was helping through the wave.

"Peetie!" exclaimed the bunny. "Please be quiet! I'm ashamed of you to bark at poor Kittie Kat, when I am trying to save her from the waves. Don't bark at your old friend Kittie Kat."

"Kittie Kat! That isn't Kittie Kat!" barked Peetie. "That's a bad old catfish, with a seaweed tail, made up to look like her to fool you. Quick, let go of her and swim to shore or she'll pull you under the waves!"

Uncle Wiggily let go and he and Peetie were soon safe on the beach.

"Fooled again!" mewed the catfish as she swam back to join the other animals on the ocean floor. "I wonder how we can catch him?"

And if the clock doesn't strike the head of the stairs and make them go down to the foot of the class in shoe buttoning, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Susie's lollypop.

✦ MARY ELLEN'S GARDEN ✦

The family decided that Mary Ellen was too young to make a war garden—oh, entirely too young.

"Who ever heard of a child of her age sticking to a garden!" exclaimed her father.

"Or pulling the everlasting weeds!" added her older brother Tom.

"Or keeping the bugs off—she hates bugs!" echoed Margaret, with an older sister air.

"All the same," said mother, relenting, when she saw Mary Ellen's face, "if father has time he will spade a little piece for you, back there in the corner dear and then you can play garden all you like."

Of course, father did have time. Mary Ellen just thought he would, and after he had spaded a little patch of ground for her she had lots of fun raking it and making the ground fine and even, and pretending she was making a garden. And then, one morning when she was beginning to get tired playing at a garden that didn't exist, Tom said to her, "Say, Mary Ellen, I've six more cabbage plants than I need. Want to stick them in your plot and pretend with them?"

"Really, Tom?" exclaimed Mary Ellen happily, "can I plant them all myself?"

"Sure!" answered Tom, absently, "and he tossed over to her the pulled-up seedlings and went on about his play.

Mary Ellen took the whole morning to that planting. She dug holes just as she had seen her father do. She carried water to make the ground moist and then she covered the little plants, after they were in the ground, with overturned crocks to keep the hot sun off. And the plants lived and grew splendidly.

Of Course, Mary Ellen Wanted the Plants.

A few days after that sister Margaret who was putting out her second batch of onion sets, said, "Oh, Mary Ellen, I see you're having a real garden! I've a few more sets than I

BILLY BUTTONS

"Billy, you certainly are a good hand at holding yarn!"

"Now Billy boy, don't you want to come over and hold some for me?"

"It helps a lot, Billy, because you hold so steady. I hope when you are through here you'll hold a skein for me."

Billy looked from one to the other room and tried hard to seem cheer- of the ladies in his mother's living ful and polite. But it wasn't easy. He had been sick a long time but now he was well enough to be all around the house and out in the yard on sunny days, but he was not strong enough as yet to play with his boy friends and to romp as he liked to do.

Billy's mother had taught him how to hold yarn and on the days when the Red Cross Chapter met at her house he was kept more than busy at his job. At first it was fun to pass from one lady to another and to be told that he sat so still and did so well. But after a few meetings the novelty wore off and then Billy though it was really hard work.

On this particular afternoon he wanted to play out of doors because the sun was shining brightly and he had a new ball. But he went from one lady to the other, saying nothing and keeping his rebellious thoughts to himself. Until his sister Sue called him to hold her yarn—the yarn she had proudly received for the first time, because she had proved she was a good knitter and could turn out fine work—then he had rebelled out loud.

"I don't want to hold your yarn!" he exclaimed suddenly and to everyone's amazement, "I just hold yarn and hold it, till I'm sick of yarn—and I don't get to wear any badge or anything! I just get to hold yarn!"

His mother looked at him thoughtfully as she hurried over to where he sat. But before she could speak one of the ladies said, "I think Billy is perfectly right! He's done good work for us and we should give him some recognition. I mean to give him a button to wear every time he holds yarn for me—beginning with the last skein he did a few minutes ago."

She reached down to the bottom of her knitting bag and pulled out a pretty, plain white button which she pinned onto Billy's waist.

"Have you one there for me?" asked another knitter, "I'd like to give Billy one for the skein he just finished for me, but I haven't any buttons to give."

Mrs. Larsh looked again and found eleven in all. "I move that the treasurer keep them and give them to Billy as he earns them."

"Now will you do my yarn?" asked little Sue.

"Deed I will," replied Billy promptly and he climbed up on the nearest table and held out his hands.

When Billy's father came home that evening he saw eight small white buttons on the front of his son's sailor waist.

"Hello there, Billy Buttons!" he exclaimed, "weher did you get the trimmings?"

Billy explained how he had earned them doing Red Cross helping.

"Good work, Billy," said his father approvingly, "and I'll tell you what I'll do. For every ten buttons you earn holding yarn, I'll give you a thrift stamp of your own. Now don't tell me holding yarn isn't a man's size job!"

And you may be sure Billy Buttons worked harder than ever after that.

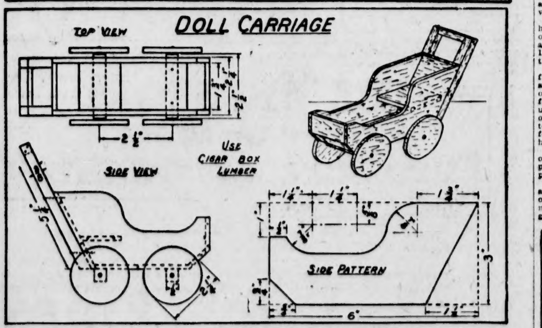
TOYS AND USEFUL ARTICLES THAT A BOY CAN MAKE.

BY FRANK I. SOLAR,

INSTRUCTOR, DEP'T OF MANUAL TRAINING, PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF DETROIT.



Probably little sister has a doll house with all the necessary furniture, but I don't believe she has a doll carriage and here is one you can make of cigar boxes for her.

Select a cigar box that has a pretty grain and whose sides and bottom are not warped. Take the box apart carefully so as not to split the board, saving the nails which if bent may be straightened and used in assembling the carriage.

Remove all the paper with coarse sandpaper, leaving nice clean mahogany or bay wood boards to work with as this is usually the material used for veneering cigar boxes.

In beginning the construction of the carriage we will start with the sides. The tools needed for laying out the sides are a rule, square and pencil, compass or pair of dividers. Get out two pieces three inches by six inches and lay out the side pattern as indicated by the heavy lines on the side pattern drawing.

With a coping saw, saw carefully to line and finish with sandpaper rounding the upper edges nicely.

Next lay out and saw the wheels, several wheels may have to be thrown away before four good ones are finally cut. It is very hard to saw a perfect wheel the first time, so do not get discouraged if your first attempt looks like an egg, remember practice makes perfect. The wheels are to be laid out with the compass, set at one-half the diameter of one and one-quarter inches which is called the radius.

When sanding the wheel do not sand off the center as this location must be kept for the nail that fastens the wheel to the axle.

The length is all that is given for the front, bottom and back and seat so making these parts will give you a little practice in fitting. Fasten the sides and parts just mentioned together with brads, and a bit of glue if you have some. It is not necessary to use many nails, the fewer the better as the parts will not be so apt to split.

Make the axles and brad them in place, driving the brads through the bottom from the inside, this will have to be done before the seat is fastened in place.

The handle may be planed up in one long piece and then cut into desired lengths, after which they should be assembled and fastened to the body as indicated on the drawing.

Inspect the work carefully and sand any rough places, then apply a coat of shellac or color as desired. After the finish has dried fasten the wheels in place with the cigar box nails.

THE JUNIOR COOK in WAR TIME

PEACH JAM THE JUNIOR PATRIOT CAN MAKE ALL BY HERSELF

Select three large or four medium sized peaches.

Drop into a saucepan of boiling water and let stand for one minute.

Pour off the water and skin the peaches.

Cut each peach into eight pieces, and discard the stones.

Put fruit into shallow dish and mash with potato masher or large spoon.

Measure the pulp.

Take three-quarters as much sugar as pulp.

Stir till sugar is dissolved.

Put over fire and stir till it begins to boil.

Boil for ten minutes, stirring only three times during that cooking.

Pour in a clean glass. This amount should make one glassful of fine jam.

This recipe conserves sugar and is easy to make. After a cook has made one glassful she may double the recipe. It is best to make only one glassful at first. Fine with hot muffins.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Through Aiken & Company

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Anticipating the approaching holiday, today's stock market lapsed into its recent dullness. A few leaders, notably United States Steel and Canadian Pacific, both selling ex-dividend, registered early declines of 1 to 1½ points but these were largely regained in the gradual recovery of the final hour. The most interesting development of the session was another advance in French exchange to the highest level of the past three years. Rates on Allied countries rose sympathetically. Additional July statements of railroad earnings submitted by the interstate commerce commission for the most part showed material net gains, especially New York Central and Chicago & Northwestern. Specialties were irregular within relatively narrow bounds. General Motors reacted two points, while Sumatra Tobacco gained a large fraction.

Sales amounted to 225,000 shares.

DUN'S REVIEW

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Dispatches to Dun's Review from branch offices of R. G. Dun and Company in the principal cities of Canada reflect generally favorable conditions. In the northwest sentiment is more cheerful as a result of the more encouraging crop reports, while in all directions the demand for merchandise is maintained by the activity in industrial lines and the high prices received for all agricultural products. In many departments midsummer quiet is still quite noticeable but with the approaching close of the vacation period there are numerous signs of reviving activity. Retail trade is showing material improvement at most points and wholesale buying of fall and winter requirements except at those centres where crop uncertainty is causing merchants to hold back their orders is of satisfactory proportions and collections are prompt as a rule.

MONTREAL STOCKS

MONTREAL, Aug. 30.—The approaching holiday and a quiet and irregular market in New York were both factors in restraint of business on the Montreal exchange today. Ontario Steel after opening heavy at 29¼, rose to 32⅞ in the later afternoon, with the close strong at the best price of the day. Canada Cement fluctuated between 68 and 68½ and closed at 68¼, or ¼ up for the day. Firmer features included Power at 83, the best price of the year, Brazilian at 40, Converters one point higher at 47, Dominion Iron ¼ higher at 64, Dominion Textile ½ higher at 97¾ and Quebec Railway ½ higher at 19. Canada Forgings displayed some strength at 208 in the morning but was offered later at 207. Easier stocks were Laurentide Pulp, off two points to 181, Steel of Canada ⅝ lower at 72¼, but quoted a small fraction higher at the close; Canada Locomotive, ¼ off to 65½; Brompton, ¼ off to 58¾, and Wabasso Cotton, off a point to 54.

Bonds were quieter than usual, with the third war loan at 94, a firmer feature.

Sales 4,455 shares; bonds, $5,200.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—With the approach of the triple market holiday, traders today showed little inclination to make commitments. In only three issues, Steel of Canada, Cement and Canadian Locomotive, did dealings run into three figures, the first at 72, a net loss of ½ point. Cement firmed up ⅝ to 68⅝, while Locomotive finished the day at 65½. Barcelona at 10¾, Canadian General Electric at 102¾, and Toronto Railway at 60 each exhibited a gain of 6, and Dominion Iron moved up ½ point to 64. Maple Leaf Milling and Steamship at 43 each lost ½ point, and Smelters was ¼ point lower at 24¾. Brazilian, Mackay and Porto Rico showed no net change.

The war loans were dull and almost stationary.

GERMAN PEOPLE NO LONGER BELIEVE OFFICIAL REPORTS

Prof. Paul Rohrbach Quite "Horrified" to Discover Fact While Touring Country

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(Reuter's.)—Writing in the Deutsche Politik on the failure of the German political propaganda, says the Times, Prof. Paul Rohrback of Berlin still clings to the belief that Germany can swallow all she wants in the east in the name of "liberation" if she can obtain peace by breaking the "home front" of the western powers through a demonstrative repudiation of pan-Germanism. The political writer's article contains illuminating admissions about German public opinion and fresh indications as to the character of the next German peace offensive. At the beginning of August Prof. Rohrbach was travelling in a remote part of Germany and he says he was horrified to discover that the German people no longer believed in the official statements as at all reliable.

METAL WORKERS' STRIKE ENDED

Winnipeg, Aug. 30.—The metal workers' strike, which has existed a little over five weeks, and which has threatened rupture to many industrial centres, as the result of an injunction entered against the strikers may now be considered practically settled. It was stated at the labor temple last night that the terms had been agreed upon between the management of the Vulcan Iron Works, employing approximately 175 men; Wheel and company, and Kipp, Kelly and Brown, which firms employ about a dozen men each, and a committee of employees from the interested establishments. The settlement in each case was on the same terms as those agreed upon with the Dominion Bridge and Iron Works.

The said assets of the company are composed of certain free hold and leasehold lands in the immediate vicinity of Edmonton, which are now being, and have been, for the last seven years, actively operated as a coal mine, together with the plant, machinery, equipment, material and stores used in connection with the said mine, as appear in detail in the liquidator's inventory thereof.

Tenders will be received for the two parcels en bloc and tenderers are required to state the amount apportioned by them to each parcel. Tenders will also be received for the parcels separately, and in case the property can be sold more satisfactorily in parcels, such tenders may be accepted.

There are certain liens and encumbrances upon the property and assets, which will, however, be provided for out of the purchase money, so that the purchaser will receive a clear title to the property, subject, however, to rentals and royalties and all covenants and conditions contained in the leases of the leasehold properties, all of which shall be assumed by the purchaser. Parcel 2 will be sold at a rate on the dollar of the above inventory value, subject to shorts and longs.

All taxes, insurance, water rates and similar items are to be adjusted to the date of acceptance of the tender.

Terms, 10 per cent of the purchase money shall be paid with tender and the balance in two equal payments at thirty and sixty days, with interest at 7 per cent, secured to the satisfaction of the liquidator.

The purchaser shall search the title at his own expense, and the liquidator shall not be required to furnish any abstracts or produce any deeds, declarations or other evidence of title, except those in his possession. The other conditions to be the standing conditions of the Court so far as applicable.

Orders to inspect the properties and inspection of documents, including certain reports and inventories, may be had upon application to the liquidator.

For further particulars apply to the undersigned.

HEALTH is one of the priceless blessings a bounteous Nature has bestowed on us. Without it life is a torment of sorrow, pain and worry; inefficiency, failure and poverty are the result and life becomes a mockery.

"How can I get well?"—"How can I keep well?" The questions are universal. Rich and poor alike have often voiced them. Therefore, this series of talks, of which this is one, will be read with interest by every one, the well and the sick. It will tell of the science of Chiropractic, which has pointed the way to Health to thousands, many of whom had sought in vain for relief through medicine and surgery.

Chiropractic (Ki-Ro-Prak-Tic) is drugless. By a method of scientifically correct adjustments by hand, the cause of disease is removed and Nature is enabled to restore diseased conditions to normal and health results.

CHIROPRACTIC

is the logical health method of the times. If you are ailing isn't health worth a few moments of your time spent to investigate this science? Information gladly given personally, or send your name in and descriptive literature will be sent. Watch for other announcements in this series.

"When Can You Deliver?"

THAT'S the customer's first question, usually. How do you answer him?

Your goods may be superior, your clerks may be courteous, your store attractive, but, after all, unless your deliveries are prompt and dependable, your customers will be disappointed and trade elsewhere next time. Do you realize how many people judge a store by its deliveries?

Is your delivery system on a par with the rest of your business? Does it draw new trade or lose customers for you? Are your horses as suitable for you as they were at one time? If not, why do you persist in being a little behind the times, when a Ford One Ton Truck would be more in line with your other business standards?

Perhaps your deliveries cost you too much. If you are using motor trucks, they may be too heavy for your line of business and therefore too expensive. The Ford Truck uses less fuel when handling a full load than some trucks use running empty.

The Ford One Ton Truck is a money saver, so why not modernize this department of your business at once?

In the World of Labor

ARRANGEMENTS have been completed for a Labor day celebration at the Labor Hall, Purvis Block, 101st street and Jasper avenue, and will consist of a concert, whist drive and dance during the evening of Monday next. A commencement will be made at 8 o'clock, and as tickets have been selling splendidly a good attendance is practically assured. The entertainment committee of the Trades and Labor Council have done their best that the affair shall be something out of the ordinary, and as the result of their efforts the concert program is stated to be an exceptionally good one. Handsome prizes have been secured for the whist drive, and it is hoped to put on one of the largest events of this kind ever seen in the city. Those who have kindly contributed to the prizes for the whist drive and dancing include Johnston Walker, Hart Bros., Reed's Bazaar, Dominion Cigar Store, Somerville Hardware, Esch & Co., Gilpin & McComb, McGill & Driscoll, Young & Kennedy, C. Hepburn and Owl Drug Store.

IF a woman does a man's work and does it well, should she receive a man's pay?" asks the Toronto Daily News. Continuing the News says: "Women tram-workers in London believe that an affirmative answer is only their due, and they have organized a strike to insist upon it. Some observers have written fearfully about a "sex war" (whatever that may be) and have professed alarm over the prospect of direct and unrestricted competition in the labor market between men and women. Yet no one suggests that a woman shareholder in any industrial enterprise should receive a specially reduced dividend as compared with men-investors. By their accomplishments in the war women have proved that they have a direct national importance, whether as workers or as mothers. For that reason they have acquired the franchise, having earned it truly and well. Legally and actually a woman is no longer a social inferior. It follows, therefore, that no one has a right to consider her an industrial inferior, if her work is on an equality of performance with that of a man. Some kinds of labor women never will be able to do efficiently. Physical strength still counts. Perhaps administrative, constructive and organizing thought is more common among men than among women. But in close detail or routine work girls have proved themselves as faithful, as competent, and as industrious as men. Surely they are entitled to an equality of pay. It is no answer to say that men's wages are higher because they have families to support, nor is it probable that home life will end because the wife has brains enough to support herself if she should elect to do so. Alarm about the homes of the nation was expressed twenty-five years ago when girls began to enter upon business life. Yet marriages have not fallen off, and it is assuredly true that the bookkeeper or stenographer who leaves her desk to preside over a home is usually a more competent housewife than the feminine idler who filled her mind with literary sentimentality, her time with flirtation, and her being with chocolate macaroons."

FIRE Chief Smith, head of the Toronto Fire Department, stated that he would definitely refuse to recognize or countenance an affiliation of the Toronto Firemen's Association with the International Firemen's Association of America. The international is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. "The men asked permission of me to form an association," he said. "I sanctioned this, but stated emphatically that I would not allow a union." While some of the men have joined the International body, it is significant that the majority of the experienced men have not signed. "We think of the dreadful consequences of a strike in the event of any trouble," said one of the latter. "Many lives might be lost by the inability of volunteer ladder men to reach the windows. Again, there is the awful possibility of a fire getting beyond the control of inexperienced men and wiping out the down-town section. An association is good enough for us."

SKILLED workers in the shipping industry of the United States have presented "friendly demands" to the Labor Adjustment Board of the Shipping Board for increase in wages to $1 an hour, double time for all overtime, Saturday half-holidays throughout the year and 10 per cent. bonus for all night shop work. The present wage is approximately 75 cents an hour.

AFFAIRS are looking ominous as far as the telegraph system of Canada is concerned, and also as far as cable service from the Dominion to other parts of the world. The leaders of the C.P.R. telegraphers, who have been in session at Montreal since March, trying to get the men an increase in pay, an eight hour day, and time and a half for overtime work, are now certain that unless the terms asked by the men are conceded there will be a strike, with all the injurious effect that such will cause by the telegraph and cable service being completely tied up. The leaders had the power, if the terms asked were not given, to call a strike, after consulting with the president of their union. They, however, strained every point to come to a settlement, and when the McAdoo award was offered they put the matter up again to their members, who, by a 98 per cent. vote, ordered the strike to be called. The leaders have notified the manager of telegraphs of the C.P.R. that the men refuse to accept the McAdoo schedule, and also of the strong vote given by the men in favor of a strike. They now await action by the railway company, but say they will not wait long, as the men they represent would not stand for that. If no favorable reply is received inside the present week, then it is likely that immediately after Saturday, which is pay day of the men, the strike will be begun. The Department of Labor has also been notified by the men's leaders of the decision arrived at, and now preparations are already in progress for the worst, if such has to be faced. The strike, if called, will arrest directly between 500 and 600 telegraphers of the C.P.R. in Canada, and indirectly about 2,500 persons. It is further claimed that it will affect the G.N.W. telegraphers and railway operators of both railways, making a total of about 4,000 persons who will be implicated.

A great many people are readers of the Saturday Evening Post. It has a wide circulation, presumably of thinking and reasoning people, but considering that it sets out to be a sort of popular mentor to readers, occasionally its comments may be regarded as somewhat shallow. Recently it seems inclined to be sarcastic with those termed the "intellectuals" of the American labor movement, for the reason that they had not expressed any pleasure in American labor failing to keep pace with the programs of future development marked out for British organized labor. "Briefly," says the Post, "the decision of American labor was just to stick to unionism, to getting labor organized in unions whose chief object would be to strive for better wages and better living conditions." The Post then continues:

"Intellectuals regard this as a shamefully sordid and purblind program. They want labor actively in politics and committed to vast schemes of social regeneration. When American labor scratches a puzzled head over those world-changing—but painfully indefinite—imaginings and allows that it will just plug along for better wages, they accuse it of lack of idealism. But they are unable to give labor the slightest assurance that if the world-changing plans they have thought up between dinner and bed-time could be put into effect their result would be anything nearly as good as a simple raise of wages."

Now, this sort of comment from the Post certainly does sound a little cheap, especially as the paper is generally regarded as being committed to preaching the gospel of efficiency, meaning the efficiency secured as the result of knowledge. For one thing, from what can be heard, there does not seem to be anything particularly indefinite about the doings or program of the British labor party. However, to refer to the "intellectuals" those particular objects of the wit of the Post. Granted that there are grades of "intellectuals," is it not that in the field of intellectual endeavor that salvation rests for the labor party? American labor may now scratch its head over what are termed "vain imaginings," but when intellect has been developed a little more and with the knowledge and realization of ability secured, there will be no more head-scratching, but something doing, even if it does turn to schemes of racial regeneration. With knowledge comes power and the ability to secure, not only wealth, but also those other things which only the cultivated intellect can grasp are essential for a nation. Who were the men who secured for England the first outstanding bulwark of her liberties—Magna Charta. Not the peasants, because they were sunk in ignorance at the time, but the barons and the priests, men who possessed the only knowledge available in their day, and who were intellectual enough to realize what was necessary for the progress of the nation as a whole, and to insist upon its realization.

When addressing the Canadian club at Edmonton this week, this same subject was alluded to by Major W. L. Grant, principal of Upper Canada college, Toronto, and certainly his remarks did not coincide with the views of the Post. Dwelling upon the great period of reconstruction that looms in the future, he drew a picture of it being achieved by co-operation, by organized capital working in conjunction with nation-wide organized labor, educated labor, filled with "intellectuals" if one cares to put it that way. Nothing could have been more capable and convincing than the stress placed by Major Grant upon this need for more education and the development of the intellect, and it may not be too much to say that he cited it as the only hope for the future. With knowledge comes loftier aims, something more than the mere filling of the dinner pail and short hours of toil, and it was evident that such was in Major Grant's mind when he said, "Let there be education and yet more education."

Just one more word on the subject: Some labor men have been heard to remark, like the Post, that organized labor meant one thing only—the securing of better wages. And with it has been the reference to themselves as "working plugs." A man is always regarded by others at near about the same valuation that he places upon himself. If a man believes himself to be nothing but a working plug and stays with the idea, well it is likely to be accepted by those around him, but if there is one thing that will alter his own opinion of himself and also the opinion of others, it is education and his climbing into the sphere of the "intellectuals."

Up and Doing

The country boarder from Boston had risen early and taken a stroll. Returning an hour later he met the farmer.

"Well, young man," said the latter, "been out to hear the haycock crow, I suppose." And the sly old chap winked at his hired man.

The Boston man smiled. "No," he said suavely; "I've merely been out tying a knot in a cord of wood."

AUTO MAKERS TAKE EVERY PRECAUTION

Preventing Trouble at the Source Costs Studebaker Thousands of Dollars Yearly and Requires the Maintenance of Laboratories that Rival Those of Universities.

The astonishing thing about a good modern automobile is the way it stands up and gives service under every possible road condition, in every part of the world. Rough roads, hills, mud, sand, only seem to bring out the car's inbuilt stamina. But to the owner who sits complacently behind the wheel, free from the worry of frequent mechanical difficulties, there is seldom a thought as to what is really back of the car's goodness.

Yet this quality does not just happen—there is a reason for it.

Automobile manufacturers take nothing for granted. That is, those recognized leaders who have created and consistently maintained a reputation for quality, accept no one's say so when it comes to materials that enter into the construction of their cars. They build longevity and service into their cars by making sure in advance.

Some sage has said that the training of a child should begin with his grandparents. Automobile engineers believe that the inspection of a car should begin with the raw material.

The Studebaker Corporation, Walkerville, Canada, one of the world's largest and best known manufacturers of automobiles, obtains surety of manufacture partly from exact engineering calculations, partly by scientific tests in wonderful chemical and physical laboratories, and partly by exhaustive road tests.

Studebaker has invested a large fortune in its laboratories and equipment. The research and chemical laboratories, for instance, occupy nearly 15,000 square feet of floor space and employ a large force of skilled men, each man holding his college or university degree. And here it is interesting to note that these Studebaker laboratories are larger and more completely equipped than many of the universities from which the men employed graduated.

In the chemical laboratory, materials such as steel bar stock, brass, bronze, babbit and cast iron, are carefully analyzed and checked with specifications from the engineering department. Any deviation from original specifications means immediate rejection. Steering knuckles, transmission and rear axles gears, steering arms and other vital parts are regularly sampled and checked in the mechanical laboratory to see that production is always up to standard. The metallurgical laboratory tests the heat treating of steel under microscopic enlargements from samples which are taken after each heat treatment. Specialized experts in the physical laboratory test finished parts for strength by special machines which exert crushing, twisting, and pulling or bending strength sufficient to break any finished part. Three of the latest type electric power absorption dynamometers, measuring power up to 100 horse-power through a speed range of 4,000 revolutions per minute, are operated by Studebaker in the dynamometer and mechanical departments.

Studebaker research laboratory, maintained at great expense and employing many scientific men of note, is fully equipped for scientific work along original lines. The object and duties of this department are to investigate, analyze, and develop new ideas toward determining their relative merits and resultant commercial value.

The work done in the experimental department covers the necessary work on all new models and special apparatus, the inspection of a sample of all purchased parts, such as dies, castings, motor parts, guages, etc. These outside parts, of course, have been rigidly inspected and checked up by their makers before delivery to Studebaker. But Studebaker engineers take nothing for granted—they insist upon a thorough inspection under their own eyes to ascertain whether the work has been accurate and up to Studebaker standards. This department is also used for the purpose of conducting road tests to evaluate and check up laboratory results under actual road conditions. Tests on the road cover the question of engine performance, economy, endurance, acceleration, spring performance, road resistances, tire tests, brake tests, night driving lighting effects and many other minor tests covering the effects on some one part of the car. Tests made on the road are often duplicated in the mechanical laboratory for the purpose of special observation or of obtaining engineering data for analyzing purposes.

MURRAY AND TILDEN WIN WAY TO LAWN TENNIS SEMI-FINAL

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 30.—R. L. Murray, known as the California meteor, playing from Niagara Falls, and W. T. Tilden, Jr., of Philadelphia, won their way into the semi-final round of the 37th annual tennis singles championship on the courts of the West Side Club here today. Murray defeated N. W. Niles of Boston, Mass three out of four sets at 7—5, 6—4, 2—6, 7—5. Tilden resumed the match with W. M. Hall of New York, which was interrupted for a brief spell, with Hall leading. The Philadelphian, however, quickly swept away Hall's elead and won the fourth and fifth sets, the complete score being 3—6, 6—1, 5—7, 7—5, 6—1. The only other match of the day brought about the defeat of B. C. Wright in the last play of the fifth round. The veteran internationalist went down in a five set match before the Japanese star, Ichiya Kamuage.

The Murray-Niles match was by far the most thrilling of the day's play and saw the largest gallery of the week. On outside courts the more youthful players competed for junior and boys' national championships, with the result that Vincent Richards, Yonkers, N. Y., won the boys' championship from Abraham Bassford, New York.

The New Studebaker Cars
ESTABLISHED 1852
Series 19

IT has remained for the New Series 19 Studebaker Cars to visualize the greatest expectations of motorists this season.

That beauty in mechanical perfection, design and refinement as a whole, which always has a powerful and hearty appeal for people possessing individuality and distinctive tastes, is the dominating note in this moderately priced New Series.

These models, each of an ideal size for its purpose, compose this New Series 19: a FOUR, furnished in 5-Passenger Touring and Sedan, a LIGHT-SIX, in 5-Passenger Touring, 4-Passenger Roadster and Sedan, and a BIG SIX in 7-Passenger Touring and Sedan.

Every detailed unit of their construction reflects the finesse and skill of experts whose experience is available only to great organizations.

That is why these cars are exactly what you would choose were you an expert engineer of ripe experience and successful achievements in the building of the finest modern motor cars.

Beautiful in Design—Thoroughly Modern—Mechanically Right

You who appreciate grace and harmony will mark the beautiful lines which set these cars apart and make them so desirable.

From a mechanical standpoint, the same degree of perfection has been attained. The essence of many of the best mechanical brains in the world has created this triumph.

These cars are new in design—new throughout, with improved motors, intermediate transmission, tops, windshields, radiators, hoods, fenders, and radical body styles.

Finally, to make assurance doubly sure, these different models were first subjected to days and weeks of the hardest kind of road tests before being passed into production.

Never before were we better satisfied with the performance of any cars in power, speed, endurance and riding comfort.

SCHOONER REPORTED SUNK IS TOWED IN

A CANADIAN ATLANTIC PORT, Aug. 29.—The Newfoundland three-masted schooner Blanca, before reported captured and sunk by a German submarine off this coast, was towed into this port this morning. The Blanca which was abandoned by her crew by order of the U-boat commander, was picked up adrift three days ago by a Boston fishing schooner fitted with an auxiliary engine. The Newfoundland schooner had been somewhat damaged. The Germans evidently set off a bomb in her hold, as a portion of the deck is raised and the vessel is leaking considerably, but the ship's stout frame held together despite the shock of the explosion and her cargo of tobacco kept her afloat.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRES AT OTTAWA AND SOO

Britannia Club House Destroyed —$200,000 Loss At Eddy's Yards.

Ottawa, Aug. 30—A disastrous fire which broke out about 4.45 p.m., on Thursday, destroyed the club house of the Britannia Boating club, at Britannia bay, and all its contents, including 150 or more canoes that were stored in the boat house, racing canoes and shells, engine accessories, sails and oars and other boating equipment. The dance hall, piano, victrolas and contents of the members' lockers, were also lost in the fire. The damage is placed at about $45,000.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 29.—Fire of unknown origin caused damage estimated at more than $200,000 in Eddy Brothers' lumber yards at Blind River, Thursday afternoon. The fire started about noon at the edge of the dock and worked inward, fanned by a west wind, until at least one-third of 12,000,000 feet of lumber piled in the yards, was reduced to ashes. Two tugs and the town fire engine taxed their capacity in throwing streams of water into the burning piles so that the fire, while still burning, is now under control. The Wallace Lumber company's yard is also loser as it was owner of a part of the burned lumber.

Montreal, Aug. 30.—Montreal yesterday saw the first Chinaman appointed a commissioner of the superior court, Song Foo's petition to Mr. Justice Tellier for this privilege being granted by his lordship. Song Foo therefore now has power to administer oaths.

KEEN INTEREST SHOWN IN TAIT-CHALIFF BOUT

The Tait-Chaliff bout to be staged in the Empire Theatre on Monday evening is causing widespread interest. The tickets on sale at Mike's are going like hot cakes, and the fan who puts off buying his tickets early will be the loser, as there is sure to be a full house.

Clonie Tait, lightweight champion of Canada, is in the "pink of condition" and there is no doubt in his mind as to the outcome of the contest. Sammy ("Knockout") Chaliff, on the other hand, is apparently as optimistic as his opponent and thinks that his ability to absorb punishment will carry him through the ten "frames" with a margin.

Three fast preliminaries are being arranged by the promoters, the curtain raiser to commence at 8 o'clock sharp.

HERE AND THERE IN THE MUSIC WORLD

Music begins where language ends.

To let the piano go out of tune is false economy.

Music has a general appeal to everybody. The hymns of the strictest and most exclusive of denominations are rarely sectarian.

Economize on the earth's natural resources. But saving on music or anything that can help the soul of man is a crime.

A melody has been defined as an agreeable succession of single sounds invented by a musician and reproduced by a voice or an instrument.

1918 is the one hundredth anniversary of Gounod's birth. Gounod was the foremost of French composers. He is best known as the writer of "Faust," the "Soldiers' Chorus" of which everyone knows.

"It has done the most good to the greatest number and has touched more lives helpfully than any other hymn." That was Dwight L. Moody's tribute to "Just as I am," Charlotte Elliott's words mostly sung to the tune Woodworth.

"One thing I have always opposed," said a well known concert accompanist recently, "is the practise of women singing love songs obviously intended for men. There seems to be an unwritten law that women can sing men's love songs with perfect propriety, though one does not hear the contrary to any extent."

One of Chopin's last wishes was that his heart should be sent back from Paris to Warsaw. This was carried out. The wish was prompted by his great love for his native land, Poland, and also by the strange fear that he might be buried alive.

Music played a great part in the Reformation. It was carried forward on the waves of song. The new songs of the Reformation and the old psalms revived in the popular musical forms had a telling effect upon the masses of the people. Now, as then, music and religion are inseparable.

Sometimes at his concerts, Liszt undertook to improvise on any theme the audience suggested. Once in Italy, instead of the usual musical theme, he was sent the question: "Is it better to marry or remain a bachelor?" Liszt was a good sport. He made a witty speech concluding that a man was sure to regret either step.

A Hindu now in America who has grown fond of our Western music says "quite often in the larger cities in India, the female Christian missionaries enter the Zennanas to convert the purdah women. They read the Bible and sing religious songs. It was on one of these occasions that I heard Western music for the first time in my life."

DO YOU KNOW?

Studying the piano is very interesting—just practicing is drudgery.

It is easier to be a great musician than to become one.

It matters a great deal which way the wind blows in a flute, or cornet or trombone.

There is no long round-about way to become a lover of good music. It's within everyone's reach.

Loud or accented notes in a piano composition should always be played, where possible, with a strong finger. The thumb is the strongest, the third or middle finger next, and then ranging in strength follow the fifth, second and lastly the fourth finger.

If we ask who enjoys music more, the man who listens to a symphony or the man who listens to popular music, the answer is that he enjoys music most who listens to music best fitted to his personality—meaning personality in its widest sense, the sum total of his physical, mental and social qualities, and it makes no difference whether this best-fitted music is a symphony, rag-time tune or sentimental ditty.

If the pegs of your violin stick, or jerk so that it is impossible to tune it accurately, remove the peg and dampen the finger. After rubbing the finger over a cake of soap apply it to the part of the peg where it fits in the hole and rub chalk over the soapy part of the peg until there is a thick coating of chalk. Then the peg will turn easily and gradually and the chalk will make it hold its place. If this fails, buy a new peg or have an expert fit the old one.

ASSOCIATE MUSIC STUDIOS STARTING ON SECOND YEAR

With a record during the past year of over five hundred registered students and ninety per cent. of the candidates for examination successful, the Associate Music Studios are entering upon the second year of their existence with excellent prospects for even greater success this year. The members of the faculty are all highly qualified and enthusiastic teachers and moreover, lend their efforts to the development of the musical attainments of the city in other ways than through their teaching in the studios.

The students of the Associate Music Studios are prepared for the examinations of the Royal Academy of Music, London, the Toronto Conservatory and McGill university, as well as for the Studios' own examinations.

Registration for the opening year begin on Sept. 2nd, examination for entrance will be held during the week and the fall term studies will begin on Sept. 9th.

PIONEER COLLEGE ENTERS 16TH YEAR

Alberta College North Has Added New Courses To Its Curriculum —A Bit of History.

It is fifteen years ago since Rev. Dr. J. H. Riddell spent his first day in Edmonton as principal of Alberta College and spent his time anxiously waiting for the first student to enroll. It was not until the second day of the term that the student came, but from that time to the present hey have been coming by hundreds. Since the theological department of the college has been separated from the other branches of work and established as Alberta College South, the first college to be occupied on the University grounds, the parent institution has been known as Alberta College North and its work has been chiefly devoted to academic, business and musical education.

During the year just concluded over thirteen hundred students took courses in bookkeeping, stenography, telegraphy and the other branches of the business course or in academic courses, music or art. This year the college will give instruction in the use of the dictaphone, adding machines, calculator, and other modern office devices. Principal McCall recently made a trip to visit the leading business colleges of the western States and British Columbia, and adding the information gained to what he has learned from experience and from visits to leading eastern colleges, he was prepared to equip the college second to none in the west and the board has backed him up in this undertaking. Ther is a big demand for Alberta College graduates, and during the past year although they placed over 300 students, the college could not fill the demand. With the extensions and improvements made this year, the education and training the college can give will be better than ever.

One of the attractive features of the college is the residence life enjoyed by the students from outside the city. The students work hard but have a good time and their parents rest easy while their children are away from home but in the college.

MUSIC AND ARITHMETIC

A prominent western public school inspector not long ago at a gathering of music lovers made some very plain statements regarding the question of the proper introduction of music into the public schools of Canada. This gentleman admitted that the present system of teaching music in the schools was far from satisfactory and added "what we need in the schools of Canada today is more music and less arithmetic. Children are being denied the greatest educational benefits in life owing to the lack of foresight on the part of our school board authorities to place properly qualified music teachers in the schools of Canada."

In the above connection it is interesting to note the views of Frank Damrosch, New York, who had this to say recently: "Music should have a place in every school for rich and poor alike; not in the old fashioned way, by teaching the children to shout songs by rote, but by teaching them to sing by notes, in order that in after life the treasures of music may be available to them, just by learning to read books the treasuries of literature have been made their own.

"Let music take its place side by side with spelling, reading and arithmetic. The regular class teacher can do as much good with the rudiments of music instruction as she can with other subjects, if she is made familiar with the simple pedagogical principles which underlie the best methods of sight singing."

"To introduce music properly into the schools very little preparation is necessary and comparatively little additional expense need be incurred. With one supervisor of music, who is a competent teacher and musician, to every class teacher, and, weekly visits to each class room, to supervise their work, the best results may be obtained. Such an arrangement insures uniformity of method—a very important requisite to success—and causes the least loss of time and effort. Ten minutes a day, or in the higher grades fifty minutes a week, in any division convenient to the teacher, will, in the usual school period from the age of six to fourteen, produce such results as to surprise even the most sanguine."

HAYDEN MORRIS NEW CONDUCTOR AT GRACE METHODIST CHURCH

Miss Sybil Saunders, A.A.C.M., Is Appointed to Position of Organist.

The music committee of Grace Methodist church have been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Hayden Morris as conductor of the choir. Mr. Morris is well and favorably known in musical circles throughout Alberta. He is a pupil of the late Signor Alberto Randegger and Guillemo Moretti, Ada Lewis Scholarship, Royal Academy of Music, London, England, 1901-4, Albert Hall Chorus, Alma Mater Male Chorus (Professional), Royal Welsh Glee Singers, Madame Alice Esty Tour "Il Trovatore," Professor Ebenezer Prouts Queens Hall "Messiah" Chorus. Since coming to Alberta, Mr. Morris has been actively engaged in his musical activities, being late soloist of Central Methodist church, Calgary; conductor of Metropolitan chorus choir; master of chorus of the Hayden Morris choir; conductor of Robertson church choir, and Wesley church choir. He taught at Alberta College North and South for three years. Mr. Morris will take up his new duties at Grace Methodist church on Sunday, September 8th.

Miss Sybil Saunders, A.A.C.M., honor graduate Alma College, and pupil of Mr. Thomas Martin of London and St. Thomas, has been appointed as organist of Grace Methodist church choir. Miss Saunders received her early education in England, coming to Canada in 1910. She took a post-graduate course and taught successfully at St. Thomas, where she had a large class. Miss Saunders is also an elocutionist, and has accomplished much in concert work; she has been engaged as pianist to the Hayden Moris choir for the season of 1918-19.

Rev. W. E. McNiven, who has recently taken up the pastorate of Grace church, but who is at present on his holidays in the east, will return next week, and occupy the pulpit on September 8th. With the new pastor, and newly organized choir, it is expected that some very interesting and inspiring services will be conducted at Grace church during the coming months. Strangers and visitors always given a hearty welcome.

THE PLACE OF MUSICAL GAMES AND STORIES

"My father's greatest joy in life was music," said a prominent operatic star, who owes much of her success to the musical atmosphere with which she was surrounded as a child. "He always played imaginative musical games with us in the evenings. The earliest one I remember was when we were tiny tots. He used to improvise on the small organ w had and ask us questions which we had to answer singing to his accompaniment." It is a pretty safe statement to venture that fathers and mothers do not play at music and musical games enough with their children in these days.

A good many of us have to plead guilty to the charge of Dr. Crane who tells us flatly that we are the worst singers in the world. "And we are missing a lot of fun, too," he says. "We flatter ourselves we play more than the Europeans. We do not For instance we don't play baseball. We go to see it played. Once we pass the hoop, marbles and leap-frog stage we settle down into the capacity of spectator. We don't perform plays; we watch them. We don't sing in church; we hire a quartet to sing for us. We don't play the fiddle, trombone or clarinet; we go to hear these instruments played by men who do that for a living."

That charge is quite true of many. But if the present generation has let slip its opportunities let us not start our children out at a handicap. If begun in time it is easy to interest children in the actual making of music themselves through making a game of it. For example, there is a game, somewhat typical of many others which may be located readily, called Blind Musicians. The players are divided into two groups, each of the same number. One half are blindfolded, and seated in a circle around the room Each blindfolded person has an empty chair to his left. While someone plays a piece on the piano, the other group slip quietly into the vacant chairs. Each in turn sings the verse of a song and the blindfolded person on his right must guess from the voice who is singing. All who succeed in guessing may play on the other side and it may be arranged that those who fail are to pay a musical forfeit—such as to sing a song, play a piano solo, or tell a story about some of the great musicians. On one occasion three boys who couldn't guess paid their forfeit by imitating an Italian organ-grinder, one being the street musician, the second the organ, and the third a monkey on a string, all of which created much amusement.

Then, too, there are innumerable stories for the little folks designed to impress on their minds certain musical studies. Shall we not aim at showing the children music is a joyous thing, not a drudgery?

Miss McBride, of Port Perry, Is New Principal of Alberta Ladies' College--Opens Sept. 10

Alberta Ladies' College (formerly of Red Deer) has completed the best year of its history and is preparing for the opening of the fall term on September 10th.

President N. D. Keith has returned from a trip east, where he attended the meeting of the General Assembly. He also visited Toronto and Montreal in the interests of the college.

Several new appointments have been made to the staff, which is now complete.

Miss S. M. McBride of Port Perry becomes Lady Principal in place of Miss Margaret Millar. Miss McBride comes to Edmonton with a very fine record as a teacher in a number of the best secondary schools of Ontario. The board confidently believes that she will worthily maintain the high reputation of the college for scholarship and discipline and wholesome Christian character.

Miss Ada A. Wilkie, who last session had charge of the junior grades, has been promoted to an assistantship in the High school work, while Miss Nellie Helena Wark will take charge of the juniors.

Grade VIII has again maintained its unbroken record of one hundred per cent. of successful passes. Miss Kate Cowan continues in charge of this department.

Miss Bowker returns this week from an extended holiday at Vancouver, and tahe coast, and will again take charge of the music department, together with Madame J. J. Duggan in the vocal and Mr. J. C. Switzer in the violin work.

The commercial department will be in charge of Miss C. A. Cooke, whose work last session in the college was of the very highest order. All of last year's graduates in the commercial department have been placed in lucrative positions.

President Keith reports a goodly number of new students enrolled, and the prospects are good for a successful year.

TELLING EXAMPLE OF HUN KNAVERY

London, Aug. 30—(Reuter's)—A neutral was an eyewitness of the following example of German knavery. British airmen had bombed and partly destroyed a German military train, killing and wounding many soldiers. But before any attempt was made to succor the wounded a number of men began painting a huge Red Cross on the wrecked carriages, the idea being only to pretend that it was a hospital train. The Germans then photographed the wrecked train and doubtless copies of this are circulating in Germany and neutral countries.

Crops and Dairying at Ponoka Escape Damage by Frost--Farmers Are Busy "Harvesting as Usual"

(By Clarence H. Stout)

It didn't require a nipping frost in July to convince the Ponoka farmers that there is always money in milking the old cow, irrespective of what capers wheat might cut in the world melee. Perhaps that is the reason why Ponoka escaped the frost.

And that is exactly what Ponoka did. At no place did the cold wave bear more heavily than in the Wetaskiwin district, one door north of Ponoka. Yet the damage did not extend more than a few miles south of Wetaskiwin it would appear. One will occasionally find fields in the Ponoka district where frost effects are seen in the low places, but the real damages from the freeze are negligible. Therefore the farmer who has been sowing and reaping in that favored district for the past twenty years or thereabouts, as many of those farmers have, is going about his annual harvesting the same as usual this highly variegated autumn.

This last week of August will see the bulk of the wheat crop safe in the stook and in all four directions from Ponoka. Candidly the farmers down there don't profess to be world beaters in the wheat game, but all the same there will be considrable first class wheat available at Ponoka for sharing up with the rest of Alberta when the time for a general distribution comes. One reason is that this particular district takes in so much territory. The town is the market centre for a farming area that extends 45 miles to the west, fifteen or twenty miles to the east, and gets its share of the trade that by reason of equal distances hesitates between Lacombe on the south and Wetaskiwin to the north.

Roughly speaking the district west of Ponoka got a fairly ample supply of moisture all through the growing season this year—the districts to the east did not. Consequently the wheat crop is not as abundant as it might have been but the average for the entire constituency will probably not fall short of 25 bushels to the acre. In the same situation is the Bashaw district. Although the season was somewhat on the dry side for wheat there are some excellent fields. South of Bashaw six miles is N. W. Harrington who is harvesting 500 acres of finest quality wheat, absolutely untouched by frost and good for thirty bushels to the acre.

Around Ponoka the oats and barley crops have made a winning fight against odds. One would travel somewhat extensively to find better looking fields of these grains than are here fast coming to maturity. The district put a big volume of wheat, oats and barley on the cars last fall and there is every reason to rely upon the same source for a surplus equally large this year.

The Ponoka district is as full of good farmers as the pre-war plum puddings were full of raisins. And the good farmers all keep cows that give milk. Just how much milk these cows really do give may be judged from a shipment of cream that the four city dairy stations made on a recent Saturday when 154 cans were loaded on the trains and another thirty cans or so were taken in when too late for forwarding to headquarters. Kindly bear in mind that a dairy can contains something like 80 pounds of cream.

A statement like this leads to other figures. The four cream buying stations are operated by three of the large Edmonton dairies and by one of the most prominent concerns in Calgary. During the month of July the total amount of cream purchased through these several stations amounted to at least 160,000 pounds, equivalent to 5600 tons of butter fat.

Another moment, please! The story is only half told. There chances to be a cheese factory also at Ponoka, this being operated by the Edmonton City Dairy. Now it seems that cheese is sometimes constructed from milk. At least it is at Ponoka. Hence a number of the farmers in the vicinity find it profitable to trust their milk to the tender mercies of the cheese factory, the quantity so trusted amounting to about 81,000 pounds monthly. The way the experts figure it out this enables the factory to produce about five tons of cheese every month. And still the cheese-eaters of Alberta are not satisfied, there being a constant demand for more than the factory can produce. If there be any sceptics in our midst who doubt the quality of Alberta cheese after buying from Ponoka these people should be interned.

Now, in addition to the sizeable results obtained from the dairies et al., there is the sale of eggs and butter. Naturally where farmers are out thirty and forty miles they cannot take advantage of a cream market to any appreciable extent. Therefore Ponoka is a butter center of some importance.

What does all this mean in a mixed farming district? At the very least calculation there is being distributed during the summer season $12,000 every month amongst the farmers for products of the milk cows and the hens. Little wonder that the lure of wheat speculation has failed to bite very hard along the upper reaches of the Battle river. Take the case of a farmer who bought a seemingly undesirable quarter of raw land within reasonable distance of the town some time ago. The people wondered at his apparent lack of judgment but today the same farmer is taking home about $1,500 yearly from the cream and cheese stations.

Seventeen years ago a typical family drove out towards the new homestead west of Ponoka with nearly all their possessions aboard a vehicle drawn by a mule and a milk cow hitched abreast. The same people dug in and held the line and lo, the other day on almost the same spot where they were seen driving the mule and cow 17 years ago, here they sped along towards town in all the comfort of an automobile, and with a farm at home which had all the perquisites which hard work and prosperity could give.

C. C. Cunningham, M.L.A., for Ponoka, is one of the real farmers of the district. This year he has a magnificent crop, with an especially good stand of oats. He has probably a half section in crop 14 miles northwest of town. In the same direction but less than half the distance out is the fine farm of Mr. P. Baker, vice-president of the U. F. A. Mr Baker's grain will yield in a real win-the-war manner and is fairly typical of the general prospect

FARNUM FIGHTS BIG ODDS IN HIS LATEST PICTURE CALLED "ROUGH AND READY"

Popular Star Will Be At Empress First Three Days of Next Week In Most Attractive Photoplay — Surrounded By Fine Company.

One of the most attractive photoplays the Empress theatre has ever had, is announced for three days, beginning Monday, when William Farnum's new de luxe production, "Rough and Ready," takes the screen.

The supporting company surrounding the distinguished William Fox star in this magnificent feature is of unusual brilliance, and the direction by Richard Stanton is noteworthy.

William Farnum, of course, is the favorite of everyone with any knowledge of "Who's Who on Stage and Screen." Mr. Farnum is without a peer in his field and has long been established as America's most popular dramatic actor. "Rough and Ready" fits him like the proverbial glove. Mr. Farnum's leading lady is petite Violet Palmer, whom picture enthusiasts will remember as the co-star in "The Blue Streak." Others in the cast who have important roles are Alphonze Ethier, Jessie Arnold, David Higgins, Frank Newton, Mabel Bardine and Franklin McGlynn.

Bill Stratton, whom Mr. Farnum portrays, is a man whose heart is as big and as clear as the great, cold Northland into which he goes to forget a lost love. He comes to Yellow Gulch, a rough mining settlement perched in the snows, to rest from the weariness of the trail.

A trick of fate brings to the place the girl he loved back East, and whom he never has forgot. Again Bill fights to win her—and he succeeds against odds and obstacles that would have daunted any less sturdy than he

In Bill Stratton, Mr. Farnum has found one of the finest and most appealing characterizations he has yet had for the cinemas, and his work in the part is really superb. The whole production is exceedingly well mounted and extremely well staged, so that the story is provided with an excellent background.

MISS DALTON IN INTRIGUE FILM AT MONARCH

"The Kaiser's Shadow" Shows Machinations Of Crafty German Spies.

When an inventor of a "ray rifle," which his government has accepted, discovers that his plans have been stolen by German spies when he is on his honeymoon, something is bound to happen, as is abundantly proved by Dorothy Dalton in her latest Paramount picture, "The Kaiser's Shadow," which will be displayed at the Monarch theatre on Monday and Tuesday.

The story of this thrilling photoplay deals with the operations of German spies in a large American city and with United States secret service agents who are committed to the task of stamping out the menace of German propaganda in this country. The picture is based upon the story of the same name published serially in the All Story Weekly some time ago.

The photoplay is deeply mysterious in its development and the puzzle is not unravelled until the final scene. It is because of this that only a fragment of the plot should be divulged, as a full knowledge of the denouement of the story might tend to lessen interest in the subject. It is sufficient to say that the various situations are thrilling and that the final solution of the problems they present, comes as a complete surprise.

Miss Dalton is splendidly supported in this photoplay by such artists as Thurston Hall, Edward Cecil, Leota Lorraine, Otto Hoffman and Charles French.

FRANK KEENAN ACTOR OF OLD AND NEW SCHOOL

Frank Keenan, star of "Ruler of the Road," a five part Pathe play which will be shown at the Majesty theatre the first half of next week, was born in Dubuque, Iowa April 8, 1858. His first appearance on the stage was made at the Boston College hall, in 1876. His professional debut was with the veteran actor, Joseph Proctor, at Lawrence, Mass. For some years Mr. Keenan had an extended experience in stock and acting with many players of repute derived all the benefit of such associations.

Some of Mr. Keenan's early successes were made in plays written by Jas. A. Hearne, the author of "Shore Acres." In several of these he played the star part and made a particular hit in "Hearts of Oak." Later at the Boston Opera house he scored heavily as Fagin in "Oliver Twist." At that famous theare he was associated with such sterling players as Joseph Haworth, Annie Clark, Sadie Martinot, and William Mestayer, a company reputed to be the best stock company ever seen in Boston. Among the plays in which he appeared at this period were "Rosedale, "The Lyons Mail," "The Belle," and "A Texas Steer."

In the original production of "The Christian" Mr. Keenan created the part of Brother Paul and also managed the realistic mob scenes which James A. Hearne declared to be the best he had ever witnessed on the stage.

Mr. Keenan also staged the Liebler production of the "Musketeers." His work attracted the attention of Sol Smith Russell's manager, who selected him as Mr. Russell's successor in "A Poor Relation," and "Peaceful Valley." On Mr. Russell's retirement from the stage, Mr. Keenan assumed his role in the "Hon. John Grigsby." Then Mr. Keenan went with David Belasco and was identified with many of his most famous successes, including the original production of "The Girl of the Golden West."

Mr. Keenan began his screen career with Universal. Later, he was featured in a number of Thomas Ince productions, including "The Thoroughbred," "The Sin Ye Do," "The Bride of Hate," and "The Crab."

Mr. Keenan's fame as a screen star is secure. His masterly interpretations have made him popular wherever motion pictures are shown.

"OH, THAT MELODY" BIGGEST TABLOID IN VAUDVILLE AT PANTAGES THEATRE NEXT WEEK

Musical Offering With Big Company Produced By George Choos, Who Also Sent "Oh, Charmed" To Edmonton, Last Week—Other Acts For Opening Of Fall Season.

The Fall season for vaudeville opens throughout America the first week in September. This is true of every circuit and almost every city. If it has been a hot summer the biggest and best acts have "laid off" and the smaller acts have had a field day in many cases. The first week in September likewise brings improvements to the interiors and exteriors of many theatres. A little paint here, a bit of new tapestry there, and the house looks as good as new Starting next Monday the local Pantages theatre will in many respects "look like new," but it is certain to have a program that will please theatre-goers of every class. "Oh, That Melody' is the headliner and this act is without doubt one of the most pretentious musical comedies ever presented on the vaudeville stage. George Choos, already well known as a producer of such offerings as "Oh, Charmed," which headlined last week's Pantages bill; "The Court-Room Girls," "An Arabian Night,' 'and many other musical tabloids, is sponsor for "Oh, That Melody," which contains a cast of fifteen singing and dancing comedians, including Jack Henry, Goldie Collins, William Pollard and a bevy of good looking and vivacious girls. "O, That Melody" is entirely original in conception and method of production, the book and lyrics being by Darl MacBoyle and the music by Walter L. Rosemont, who wrote the music for "Oh, Charmed." An exceptional feature of the piece is brought out in the form of a special motion picture used to carry along the story and to make the situations more amusing. Full of bright and sparkling comedy, containing a cast of undoubted worth and telling a ludicrously funny and interesting story, "Oh, That Melody" should make a decided impression upon all lovers of good vaudeville.

Other acts on the bill besides the nineteenth episode of "The House of Hate" include Mr. and Mrs. Norman Phillips in an amusing romantic offering, "Sweets to the Sweet"; Swan and Clifford sing and dance; Kinzo is one of those wonderfully dexterous jugglers and manipulators of objects and Nan Grey returns with a repertoire of Scotch songs.

"RULER OF THE ROAD" IS KEENAN'S SECOND FEATURE FOR PATHE AT MAJEST

Eminent Character Actor Has One Of His Best Opportuni As Head Of A Great Railway System.

"Ruler of the Road," the five part Pathe Play starring Frank Keenan, which will be shown at the Majesty theatre the first half of next week, shows up in a striking manner the railroad situation as it was before the government took charge of the gigantic business. In studying for his part in "Ruler of the Road," Mr. Keenan devoted much of his time to investigating the underlying powers, which controlled the railroads while they were privately owned corporations. As a result of this investigation he became a strong advocate of government ownership of the railroads.

"Ruler of the Road" shows the possibilities which may permit one railroad organiation to utterly ruin a rival organization for purely sel motives, thereby causing the pu great inconvenience, and the st holders great financial loss. S conditions are impossible, Mr. K nan believes, where the interests all the people are looked after their duly elected representati "Ruler of the Road" was produced Pathe by Ernest C. Warde. It adapted for the screen from the s cessful novel, "Simeon Tetlow's S dow," by Pennette Lee.

Other features of the holiday p gram at the Majesty will be a n comedy, the Universal Current Eve the eighth part of the Allied War view, and the Majesty's orchestra a pipe organ.

THRILL FOLLOWS THRILL IN "THE LION'S CLAW" SERIAL RUNNING AT DREAMLAN

Dreamland It is not given always to theatre managers to succeed in pleasing the public as a whole with the pictures that are exhibited, but with "The Lion's Claws" serial the Dreamland management has succeeded in solving the problem of practically satisfying everybody. Rather, "delighting everybody" would be a better term to use, as "satisfying" is hardly expressive enough. The serial, run during the last three days of each week, is attracting "standing room" only audiences, and all who have attended have expressed their intention of seeing it through to the end.

The play has all the elements to divert an audience, whether old or young, and not the least is the war interest which runs right through the story. The scenes are laid in the interior of Africa, and the plot is connected with German propaganda in this far-away land and the working of German agents, dangers which threaten an isolated British army post, and a threatened holy war. All these are incidentals in the story, and mystery is lent by the doings of a secret native tribe, followers of a strange religion.

Much of the interest in the pl centres around Marie Walcamp, w takes the part of daughter of a ca tain at the British army post, and h adventures in the African forest wh seeking to combat the German pl and also to escape the native tri who wish to bear her off into the wi erness, in the belief that she is t incarnation of a goddess, who h been prophesied to appear.

Marie Walcamp has scored ma triumphs before, but all have be surpassed in this serial which giv her exceptional opportunities to sh her daredevil bearing and undaunt intrepidity, particularly in deali with lions, elephants and other wi animals.

"Money Madness" is the feature the program at the Dreamland Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, a this play is going to prove as attra tive as previous Dreamland progran With it is shown another instalment the exciting "Bull's Eye," showi Eddie Polo in more of his marvello performances.

The story begins in ssia with the fleeing of Panthea om the net of the secret police who ve falsely accused her of being a volutionist. Escaping to England she marries a young composer and the greatest situation of the play comes when she sacrifices herself that he may achieve success.

As directed by Allan Swan, the picture excels in its rapidity of action, building up its big climaxes in a fashion that is certain to hold the most hardened picture patron spellbound. Striking scenes depicting the persecution of Nihilists by Russian police and the destruction by fire of a vessel at sea, while outside of the main thread of the story, lend additional force to the production.

One of the biggest and strongest casts of favorite picture players seen in any recent production surrounds Miss Talmadge, among them Roger Lytton, George Fawcett, Earle Fox, Murdoch McQuarrie, Norbert Wicki, Jack Meredith and many others. Starting next Wednesday "Panthea" will be seen at the Monarch for the remainder of the week.

DITH JOHNSON LEARNED DARING IN COLLEGE DAYS

Edith Johnson unconsciously began fit herself to become a screen serial r when a student at Vassar. Alys an outdoor girl, she was a leader all forms of college athletics, and en following her graduation she nt West and into motion pictures, was fitted for parts of action ich stands her in good stead in her est adventure serial, "A Fight for llions," which will be presented at Pantages starting the week of ptember 16.

Miss Johnson is a skillful and dar rider and not afraid of any stunt demanded by script or director, whether it be to jump off a 1,000 foot cliff with her skirt for a parachute, or permitting herself to be bound to the pilot of a locomotive and sent flying down the track. Early in the serial she won the respect of the hard riding cowmen because she always was willing to match her wits and skill against them, never asking odds because she was a girl.

William Duncan plays the hero part in this serial, which was written by Albert E. Smith, president of Vitagraph, and Cyrus Townsend Brady, authors of "Vengeance—and the Woman," and "The Woman in the Web," and in the cast are many old favorites from the "Fighting Trail" cast, headed by (Shoestring) Joe Ryan and including S. E. Jennings, Walter L. Rogers and Vincente Howard.

SELZNICK SENDS SPLENDID FILM TO THE EMPRESS

Constance Talmadge Last Three Days of Next Week in "The Studio Girl."

Excellent character work will be the outstanding feature of "The Studio Girl," a Selznick-Select feature, which comes to the Empress Theatre the last three days of next week, featuring Constance Talmadge. There is scarcely a portrayal in it that is not true to life, and accordingly entertaining and convincing. The story as an adaptation by Paul West of "La Gamine," a comedy by P. Veber and H. de Grosse. It is simple in plot, merely picturing the mad exploit of a daring young country girl who falls in love with an artist and hides in his automobile to escape marriage with a country youth she does not love.

There are at least two miracles in this story. One of them is that the country girl does not come to grief, for she took grave chances ,and another is that the artist-hero did not want to run off with the girl at all. It is worth going a long way to see a photoplay in which an artist-hero has no ulterior motives. The events which transpire in this story have a touch of the risque, but the situations are handled with such delicacy and charm that there can be offense.

Constance Talmade is at her best in this offering. She will be remembered as the actress who carried off that striking bit of feminine elan as the mountain girl in "Intolerance." Her work in this, particularly in the closing rels, is just as pleasing. Earle Foxe is proficient as the artist ; Johnny Hines is amusing as Obediah and Gertrude Norman and Isabel O'Madigan do well as the maiden aunts.

SHOT BY GUARD ON SUSPENSION

Ocean City, N.J., Aug. 30.—A member of the coast guard stationed here late last night shot and killed a man who is alleged to have been acting suspiciously. The shooting occurred on the beach where the guard had been stationed to watch for supposed German spies. Cards were found on the dead man indicating that his name might be Thomas Ellis. Neither the officers of the coast guard nor the police would give details of the shooting pending an investigation by the naval authorities.

A Serious Matter

There is a delicacy about mentioning piles. And yet so many suffer needlessly who could be readily relieved and cured if they only knew about Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Men tell one another about this remarkably successful treatment. But many women pine away their health and vitality, dreading a surgical operation and not knowing how easily they can be cured at home by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

JAMES BLAINE RETURNING FOR SEASON IN STOCK AT ORPHEUM THEATRE SEPT. 9

Made A Try For Entrance In American Army This Summer But Medical Category Places Him Outside Present Call.

Another season of stock for Edmontonians is promised with a company headed by James Blaine, and containing several of the members of his former cast as well as some new ones. They open on September 9, in what was the old Hippodrome theatre, but which will be known in the future as the Orpheum theatre, and the company as the Orpheum players. It had been suggested to the management from several sources that since high class productions are being presented that it would do the house good to get away from the name used in musical comedy days. Of the names suggested the Orpheum was chosen.

Edmontonians are fortunate in having Mr. Blaine with them again, for after the spring and summer season closed he went back to his home in the United States to offer his services in the American army. Upon his medical examination he was placed in category B3, which gives him an automatic leave of absence until that class is called, which may extend into a year. He is torn between two desires, one to be away on the "great adventure," and another to be back in the profession that he has made his life work, and at which he has been so successful.

Mr. Blaine brings with him a big repertoire, chosen from the best the market offers, and there will be two changes of program each week as usual, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

Patrons will find upon the opening of the theatre that there have been changes in more than name. While it has been "dark" for the past couple of months, workmen have been quietly but busily engaged in remodelling the seating arrangements, re-decorating, overhauling and heating and ventilating systems and a number of other things that will make it a real cosy playhouse where all will feel at home.

ROSE O PARADISE NEW BARRISCALE PARALT-A PLAY

Large Company at Story of Great Charm Played by Majesty.

A brand new characterization is promised by Bessie Barriscale when she comes to the Majesty Theatre for three days the last part of next week in her seven-act adaptation of Grace Miller White's popular American novel, "Rose o' Paradise," which is her most recent Paralta play.

"Rose o' Paradise" was recognized among the "best sellers" upon its publication several years ago, and it is declared to have taken its place alongside "Tess of the Storm Country," by the same author, as one of the most delightful pieces of narrative of the past decade. It is one of those ingratiating tales that holds the interest from the start, and enthralls with its vivid characterizations.

The story concerns the adventures of a little optimist, Jinny Singleton, rightful heiress of a fortune left by her mother, but made victim by a chain of unpleasant circumstances by her scheming uncle. Jinny is sent by her dying father to live with Lafe Grandoken, an old cobbler, who was formerly a gardener in the employ of the family. On the way she meets Theodore King, a wealthy and upright man, who lives in the vicinity of the cobbler's shop, and who is fascinated by the little girl.

Later Jinny is annoyed by Maulding Bates, the town bully, who persists in his unwelcome attentions, until one day he is soundly thrashed by King. Morse, Jinny's uncle, learning of Bates' grudge against King and the girl, conspires with him to get them out of the way, in order that he may secure complete possession of Jinny's inheritance. But Bates becomes enthralled in a controversy with Morse, and for revenge goes to the cobbler to inform him of Morses' plan. He then kidnaps Jinny and conceals her in a deserted house.

The cobbler is arrested for the crime and Jinny makes her escape just in time to reach the courtroom to save the cobbler and learn of King's great love for her.

In the role of Jinny Bessie Barris?cale has added another triumph to her already long list of immortal screen characterizations. The part offers her countless opportunities to score heavily, not alone with her emotional powers, but with her effervescent personality as well. She has invested the story with all the charm and sweetness that has won for her such a host of ffriends the world over, in her many former screen achievements.

SPECIAL POLICE TAKE PLACES OF STRIKING MEN

Traffic Proceeding Much Same As Usual In Metropolis—Strike Spreading.

London, Aug. 30.—London, outside of the little square mile comprising the city proper, has practically been without police protection since midnight, when the famous metropolitan police force went on strike. Traffic, usually so well looked after, was left to regulate itself until special constables—private citizens enlisted for the duration of the war to assist the regulars—turned out in hundreds to do the work of the "Bobbies."

The police strike became worse as the morning wore on. Many members of the day force joined throughout the metropolitan area. Only a small number of the older men remained at their posts. Plain clothes men picketed the stations and tried to induce the officers still on duty and also the special constables to strike.

An hour's tour of the metropolitan area during the early hours of the day found very few policemen on duty. Some who were at their posts had donned uniforms through failure to get notice from their union that a strike had been declared. They joined their comrades when pickets arrived to tell them of the decision. In one division alone, that which looks after the working class district of Battersea and Wandsworth, 800 men failed to report. Such busy West End centres as Charing Cross, Hyde Park corner, Marble Arch, Camdentown, Tottenham Court road and Shaftesbury avenue, were without their policemen. Similar conditions prevailed in South Lonodn and, in fact, in most of the metropolitan area.

Before the heavy traffic appeared on the streets, however, it was remarkable what little difference the absence of policemen made, except perhaps, to visitors who depend upon them for direction.

Traffic proceeded as usual, drivers, many of whom were themselves on strike a week ago, regulated the movement of vehicles and there was little crowding.

An early morning call was sent out by Scotland Yard to the special constables, and by 10 o'clock many of them had reported for work and were sent to the busiest corners to take on duties which were new to them.

Heretofore they simply had acted as patrolmen in quiet sectors or around public buildings. The stations were not so badly affected as were the streets as the men of higher rank were not so ready to disregard regulations and thus take the chance of being degraded.

The city of London police who are not affected, number 800. The Metropolitan force has between 1,000 and 5,000 members. Eight thousand of them have gone to war.

The Metropolitan force demand increased wages, recognition of their union and the reinstatement of a discharged man who was active in the policemen's union.

A majority of the policemen in the great Woolwich arsenal and dockyard joined the strike this morning. The men in the town of Woolwich itself have been unaffected.

BIG ROUND-UP ILLICIT DRINK MAKERS IN U.S.

486 Stills Seized; 200 Moonshiners Arrested; Five Outlaws Killed.

Washington, Aug. 3.—The biggest intensive round-up of illicit whiskey distillers ever undertaken by the government has just been completed in southern mountain districts by revenue agents under direction of Internal Revenue Commissioner Daniel C. Roper.

The activities of the agents resulted in the seizure of 486 stills, arrest of 200 moonshiners, killing of five outlaws and two sheriffs and the wounding of a number of other government men and liquor makers.

This systematic campaign of raids has been under way eight weeks, mainly in the mountains of Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North and South Carolina—all dry states—but arrests were withheld until today to avoid giving information to moonshiners of the activities of a flying squadron of 14 experienced revenue agents. The band, working swiftly from community to community, cleaned out nests of moonshiners without difficulty. More than 30,000 gallons of pale moonshine whiskey was seized and poured down mountain streams. Over $100,000 worth of illicit copper stills of all sizes and other paraphanelia, automobiles, horses, mules and wagons belonging to the distillers was taken by the flying squadron. About 21,000 pounds of sugar found on distillery premises was confiscated and most of it given to the Red Cross. Recommendations for 321 prosecutions have been sent to the department of justice and forwarded to United States attorneys, while most of the moonshiners caught at their stills are behind bars in southern jails awaiting trial.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—The first two of the ninety-seven defendants in the I. W. W. cases sentenced by Judge Landis today were Meyer Freidkin, of Denver, Col., and Glen Roberts, of Fresno, Cal., who were each given ten days' imprisonment in the county jail on each of the four counts in the indictments, the sentences to run concurrently. W. D. Haywood, secretary and treasurer of the I. W. W., and fourteen others were sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment and $20,000 fine each.

Sunshine Furnace Efficiency

The test of furnace efficiency is the volume of heat it conserves for actual use, from the heat generated in burning your fuel.

There is a fixed volume of heat in every kind of fuel, whether it is wood, soft coal or anthracite.

The business of your furnace is to extract all the heat, which all furnaces do—and to conserve the maximum of it for use—which the Sunshine furnace does.

McClary straight walled firepot—no ashes to absorb heat.

Usual sloping wall firepot. Blanket of ashes absorbing heat.

The Sunshine semi-steel firepot is built with straight walls—not sloping to form and hold a non-conducting deposit of ashes. A very important point in furnace efficiency.

The grates of the Sunshine furnace are equal in area to the firepot, so that fresh oxygen—without which proper combustion is impossible—flows to every part of the fire all the time.

All air passages are exactly proportioned so that neither too much nor too little air passes over the radiator—there can be no superheated air, nor any under heated air, sent to the rooms above.

The doors, drafts and dampers are machined to fit snugly and to exclude heat-wasting air currents from the outside.

Engineering Service Free.

McClary's own heating engineers are at your service when you buy a Sunshine Furnace, to give you free expert advice on your home-heating requirements. Write to the nearest McClary Branch and ask for particulars about this service. A booklet, "Comfort in the Home," makes clear all the things you want to know about furnaces and it is sent free on request.

TO HELL WITH THE KAISER

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC RAILWAY

AUGUST is here with it's warm days—real holiday weather. You want a cool place to spend your vacation?

Some Suggestions:

Pacfiic Coast---Eastern Canada

Or if you are just going for a local jaunt, try

JASPER PARK, WABAMUN, SEBA, FALLIS, OR COOKING LAKE

Via the GREAT LAKES EAST, is the IDEAL way to EASTERN CANADA destinations; the combination of GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC and NORTHERN NAVIGATION SERVICE IS UNEXCELLED.—TRY IT.

WEST through the Mountains via GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC thence Steamer from Prince Rupert to Pacific Coast points, links together two services that are patronized to the utmost by a discriminating and appreciative public. That ocean trip through the inside protected passage, from RUPERT to VANCOUVER has all the advantages of a SALT WATER voyage minus the roughness. Try it as a bracer. Choice of circuit tour or come back same way, same price.

Ask about the sixteen day excursion fare to Jasper Park or week end fares to the Local points.

Finally come in and see us for accurate and interesting travel information.
